HUNT GOES ON FOR PLANE SURVIVORS

County Fair's Attractions To Feature Wide Variety

Big Program Arranged For Women Is Highlight; Three Nights Of Harness Racing Again Listed

Henry Reid, secretary of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, today traced an outline of the wide variety of features and new arrangements planned for this year's county fair.

The big annual display will open for a four-day run on September 12. Pickaway County's fairgrounds are located on the eastern edge of Circleville. Activities of the 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America groups will, as usual, predominate the fair's program. Among the other main highlights, however, will be a greatly increased program especially aimed to interest women, and a renewal of the popular night harness racing.

REVIEWING the fair's planning by the main committees, divisions or competition, Reid announced the following:

Midway and Concessions
The Midway will be planned and managed again this year by the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Don Jenkins is chairman of the committee.

This committee will book all concession space for the Midway and for other sections of the fairgrounds. Anyone desiring space at the fair for any purpose should contact Jenkins. His phone number is 471-X.

All rides for the Midway will be furnished by the Gooding Amusement Company.

The Midway this year will be expanded and extended up a new road toward the cattle barns. This change will bring the Midway fun closer to the largest group of people on the grounds, and will eliminate hill-climbing for many of the Midway visitors.

More space has been rented for commercial exhibits this year than for any previous fair here.

General Planning
The road from the coliseum down to the grandstand will be paved to make walking easier. This is only one of the many improvements drawn from a suggestion contest conducted, after the 1955 fair, by the fair board and The Circleville Herald.

A new set of scales will be installed, so that livestock can be weighed accurately at the barn.

Bombers Take Off From Lockbourne In Six-Day Test

COLUMBUS (AP)—Thirty-two jet bombers took off from nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base Friday night to launch the Strategic Air Command's six-day "world series of bombing."

Richmond, Va., Springfield, Mass., and Montreal, Que., were the target cities in the eighth annual contest in which the aircraft send out radar impulses instead of real bombs. The accuracy of each "bombing run" is determined by ground units which receive the impulses.

In all, 66 B47 Stratojets and their reconnaissance counterparts, RB47s, will fly out of Lockbourne—defending champion in the contest—and four jet B52s and 16 B-36s will fly out of Loring AFB, Limestone, Me.

Air Vice Marshal Sydney Buxton, deputy commander of the Royal Air Force's Bomber Command, was among six British observers on hand here. He said the RAF would like to enter the competition next year.

Trial Delayed

NEW YORK (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello, 65, serving five years for income tax evasion, has won a 19-day delay in his denaturalization trial—till Sept. 5 to Sept. 24. The Italian-born Costello had asked a 30-day postponement because of a heart ailment.

Balloting for directors of the fair board will be held at the secretary's office during the fair.

Membership tickets, costing $1.50 will entitle the holder to parking and admission to all sessions of the fair. These tickets also enroll the holder as a member of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society for one year.

Granges of the county have volunteered their efforts to sell tickets and man the gates.

A cement dancing floor—45-by-45 feet—will be set up by the Junior Fair Board, the first time this attraction has been included in the fair's program.

Fund Advanced For Old Age Pension Use

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state controlling board has acted to prevent a 20 per cent cut in September old age pensions to nearly 98,000 Ohioans receiving pension benefits.

The board authorized transfer of more than two million dollars appropriated for pensions in the last quarter of this fiscal year for payments in the first quarter.

Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashtabula), House finance committee chairman, said the transfer was necessary to assure full pension payments in the first quarter of the bookkeeping year which started July 1.

He said the additional money also would permit payment for health and nursing care for pensioners costing about $500,000 a month.

The additional cost for such care followed removal last July 1 of the $200-a-year ceiling on those payments.

McClure said the fund transfer would create an old age pension appropriation deficit with which the next Legislature, meeting in January, will have to deal.

McClure said legislation removing the health-care ceiling "should never have been passed without going through the finance committee."

He said that the legislation should not have been left up to members of the welfare committee because "money means nothing to them."

Although Ohio will have a deficit in old age pension funds for the fiscal year ending next June 30, McClure said federal money received after Oct. 1 will cut the shortage. The Legislature will have to deal with the remaining deficit, he added.

Judge Orders Iron Ore Ship Unloaded

LORAIN (AP)—In compliance with a federal judge's order, District 50 of the United Mine Workers Friday night called men back to unload the 10,500-ton iron ore cargo from the Tom M. Girdler, which has been tied up at the Baltimore and Ohio dock here for a week.

The mine workers had refused to unload the vessel because it was picketed by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the Master, Mates and Pilots Assn., which are on strike for recognition as bargaining agent for licensed personnel on the Girdler and 57 other ore carriers.

During the tie-up, 107 empty cars have been lined up waiting to haul the ore to the Jones & Laughling Steel Corp. plant in Aliquippa, Pa.

The Toledo, Lorain & Fairport Dock Co. got the injunction Friday from Federal Judge James C. Connell. The judge set Sept. 4 as the date for hearing on a permanent injunction.

Walks From Crash

a highly attractive list of prizes for the 1956 fair. Among the prizes already arranged are two bicycles, to be awarded to children on Friday, September 14.

That day will be Children's Day at the fair. All rides will operate in the afternoon at a reduced price. A special program has been formed for the youngsters.

Two games of six-man football will be played by four county schools.

A safe-driving Auto Rodeo will again be among the features. Plans are to have an adult class in this event, in addition to the youth competition. Prizes and trophies will be awarded.

Bud Harden will again have charge of the music festival. Entries already include 12 bands and the Circleville Drum and Bugle Corps.

Emerson Brown will be in charge of the horse show planned by the Ashville Riding Club.

The popular event is scheduled for the closing afternoon of the fair. Plans are to have the show open to all contestants. In the past, it has been restricted to county residents.

A trap-shooting contest, sponsored by the Williamsport American Legion, will be open to all. There will be no entry fee. The event will be held Thursday and Friday of the fair week at the rifle range.

J. B. Stevenson will be in charge of the horse-shoe pitching contest. The event will have adult and youth classes.

J. B. Stevenson will also be in charge of the bait-casting contest, which likewise will have adult and youth classes.

Harness Racing
Harness racing will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. George Van Camp, chairman for this attraction, says more horses than last year will be in the races.

There will be no pari-mutual betting. All races will be two heats, with three races scheduled for (Continued on Page Two)

Couple Charged In Couple-Burning

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Columbus couple, charged with violating a state law prohibiting riots, will be arraigned Tuesday in connection with the burning of a cross outside the home of a Negro family.

Clayton K. Jones, 32, and his wife, Phyllis, 30, were released from county jail Friday on $250 bond each after affidavits were filed against them. The charge is a misdemeanor.

Sheriff's officers said a kerosene-soaked cross was burned Aug. 14 on the lawn of the George Lawson home in an effort to force the Negro and his family to move from an otherwise all-white neighborhood.

Jones and his wife are white.

Eisenhower Golfs; Stevenson Maps Tour; Even Reds Getting Into Act

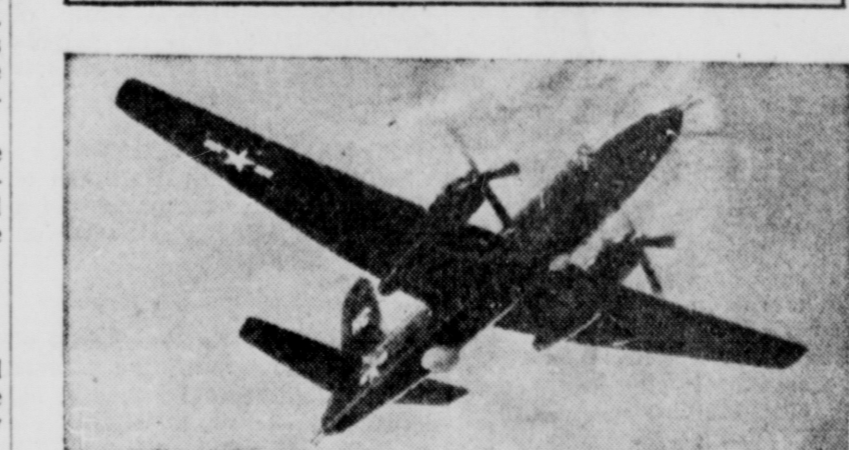

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Eisenhower bided his time on the green fairways of Pebble Beach, Calif., today while his Democratic opponent in the Nov. 6 presidential election, Adlai Stevenson, prepared for a quick campaign start.

Stevenson planned a late morning meeting at his Libertyville, Ill., farm home with running-mate Estes Kefauver for electioneering mapwork prior to a whirlwind, cross-country handshaking trip.

The two candidates will take off at 8 a. m. Monday from Chicago. Santa Fe, N.M., will be the first stop. Other parleys will be held at Vancouver, Wash.; Sioux City, Iowa; Knoxville, Tenn., and Chicago. Stevenson officially will launch his campaign with a Labor Day address at Detroit Sept. 3.

Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf Friday at the exclusive Cypress Point course at Monterey Peninsula—the first time he had gone that far since his surgery on June 9.

The President planned to continue his relaxation at the Pacific Coast beauty spot following his address to the Republican National Convention until probably Monday. The GOP campaign will not get really rolling until mid-September.

This latest shooting is one of a series which have occurred up and down the Communist-held Asiatic coast.

Two Nine-Year Old Boys Cause $200 Loss In City School House

Two nine-year-old Southend boys, accused of entering Walnut St. School and causing an estimated $200 in damage, were apprehended by city police Friday afternoon.

According to police reports, the two youths entered the school building sometime Thursday afternoon. Both floors of the building were thoroughly ransacked and police officers said.

Sgt. George Green and Officer Bob Temple declared almost every room in the school was raided by the two youngsters. "The whole building looked as if a cyclone had passed through it," the investigating officers agreed.

The policemen said that the boys apparently removed several heavy fire extinguishers from the walls and emptied their contents on the floor. Medical equipment in two first-aid cabinets were also destroyed and thrown about the building.

Steelers Quit
PORTSMOUTH (AP)—One of two blast furnaces at Detroit Steel Corp.'s Portsmouth plant was shut Friday night as about 400 brickmason helpers and yard helpers walked off the job.

The front door of the school had been left open police noted. "The two boys probably noticed this and just walked in," the officers explained.

The police officers said all work necessary for the opening day of school had just been completed inside the Walnut School building.

Green and Temple reported they found a pitchpipe, several softballs and a knife on the boys when they were apprehended Friday afternoon. The items reportedly were taken from the school building.

The police officers said all work necessary for the opening day of school had just been completed inside the Walnut School building.

The front door of the school had been left open police noted. "The two boys probably noticed this and just walked in," the officers explained.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler at the same time tore into Eisenhower's renomination acceptance speech as a "skillful blend of wishful thinking, soothing reassurances and glossing over of the failures" of the GOP administration.

Butler said the President failed to spell out the details on how he would carry out his hope for a peaceful and prosperous future.

Seek Accomplice In Kidnaping Case

Authorities Want To Know Who Had Weinberger Baby Overnight

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Police sought to learn today whether a friend helped the swarthy kidnaper who left little Peter Weinberger to die in a roadside tangle of honeysuckle vines.

Authorities said Angelo John LaMarca, 31, mechanic, told them he took the baby to Brooklyn and left him overnight with a friend only hours after the Fourth of July kidnaping.

"The identity of the friend in Brooklyn mentioned by LaMarca is unknown and the whereabouts unknown," a police official said. "He has repeatedly refused to identify the person or the place."

LaMarca's wife told newsmen: "Someone else is involved but he won't say who."

LaMarca, a bushy-haired man with two children of his own, was held without bail for a further hearing next Friday on a kidnaping charge. He made no plea.

Authorities said a murder count probably will be added to the kidnaping indictment sought from the grand jury.

Meanwhile, a policeman was locked in with the dejected prisoner to guard against any suicide attempt.

LaMarca was charged with kidnaping the 32-day-old infant from the patio of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger's ranch home in Westbury, N. Y.

LaMarca was quoted by police as saying he abandoned the child the next day after he panicked in a vain attempt to collect $2,000 in ransom to meet a pile of debts.

Searchers found the decomposed remains of the infant Friday in underbrush near a heavily traveled Long Island parkway a half mile north of the LaMarca home in Plainview.

"Even if the child was alive when it was placed on the ground, it may well constitute murder," said Dist. Atty. Frank Gulotta.

Under New York law a person who causes a death while committing a felony is liable to first degree murder charges, punishable by death in the electric chair. Kidnaping also carries a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair.

The parents, Morris Weinberger, 48, a prosperous drug salesman, and his wife, Betty, 32, had never given up hope through all the desperate weeks since the kidnaping that their baby was still alive. Friends said their reaction to the news was very severe. They have an older son.

LaMarca was arrested early Thursday at his home. He was tracked down after a painstaking FBI search through more than two million handwriting samples.

The ransom note bore certain handwriting quirks. FBI men finally found matching peculiarities in LaMarca's signature in federal district court records in New York City. LaMarca received a suspended sentence last year on a bootlegging charge.

Helicopter In First Flight Across Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has flown a helicopter on the first transcontinental, nonstop trip in an attempt to prove the practicality of long-range "copter flight."

A weary five-man crew landed a twin-rotored H21 at the Pentagon's heliport late Friday afternoon, ending a 31-hour and 40-minute flight from San Diego, Calif.

Four aerial refuelings were used to enable the normally short-ranged machine to make the 2,610 mile trip across the United States.

When daylight and weather permitted, the helicopter "drank" fuel through a hose from a small tanker plane which accompanied it. Twice the H21 hovered near the ground while gas was pumped up through a hose.

The Army said the trip proved that helicopters can be flown long distances to reach battle zones in wartime. It also seemed to prove that man's ears can stand a day and a half of the thundering din of an engine and whirling rotors, with only a few winks of sleep.

Capt. James E. Bowman, Amboy, Ind., first pilot, said the crew ate "in-flight lunches," another name for cold box lunches. Once during a refueling some hot coffee was passed to them.

Ohio Pilot Killed In Hawaii Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—Maj. Victor A. Thielborn, 39, husband of the former Edna N. Claypool, Columbus Grove, O., was one of two Air Force pilots killed Friday when their T33 jet training plane crashed at Barbers Point Naval Air Station.

The other airman killed was Maj. William R. Utt Jr., 38, Kansas City, Mo. The Air Force said the plane flamed out on an instrument landing and crashed into two other aircraft parked off the runway.

Navy Officials Say Search On 'At Full Force'

Body Of Ohioan Is Only One Recovered Since Aerial Battle

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—U. S. Vice Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, commander of the 7th Fleet, said the search had been terminated for survivors of a Navy Patrol plane downed off the Red China coast.

But in Washington Pentagon officials said the search is continuing "at full force."

The Washington announcement came from the office of Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations.

Naval officials at the Pentagon said: "You can say the search has not been discontinued and as a matter of fact will continue in full force. The same number of ships and planes is participating in the hunt. When the search is abandoned it will be announced here."

Ingersoll's announcement here said the hunt was called off at 11:25 a. m. (9:25 p. m. EST) Friday after "all possibility of locating survivors was exhausted."

Ingersoll said ships and aircraft which took part in the search were ordered to return to their normal operating schedules.

THE NAVY Department in Washington announced that the body of one of 16 crewmen aboard the four-engine-P4M Mercator was recovered Friday in "international waters" amid the wreckage of the plane about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai.

He was identified as Technician 1. C. Albert P. Mattin of Delta, Ohio.

The last radio message from the patrol craft said it was under aerial attack off the China coast.

Red China protested that the search conducted by the U. S. 7th Fleet violated Chinese territory.

Peiping radio accused the Americans of an "act of military provocation" and of "grave provocation to the Chinese people." The broadcast charged at least 54 U. S. planes violated the area near (Continued on Page Two)

Death Rate Higher In Coal Mines

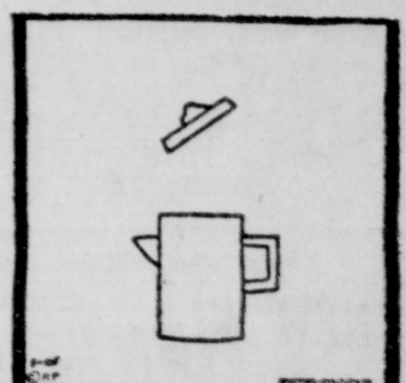

WASHINGTON (AP)—Coal mine accidents caused 41 deaths during July, the Bureau of Mines has reported.

The fatality rate of 1.61 per million man hours of work time was the highest for any month since December, 1951. In that month, the rate was 2.63 as the direct result of an explosion disaster in an Illinois mine which killed 119.

Based on production, the fatality rate last month was 1.27 per million tons, the highest for any 1956 month.

"COFFEE POT FLIPPING ITS LID"

These days people are always hollering that the art of making a "really good" cuppa coffee has vanished along with Irium, Davey Crockett and chewing tobacco. Actually these people have trouble because they make their coffee too weak. Coffee should be strong. I'm a normal coffee drinker (48 cups a day) and I make mine using the Scandinavian method. First I put a pound of coffee (fine grind) into the pot and then add a pinch of salt, two raw eggs and a picture of Anita Eckberg. Then comes the coffee for a while (no longer than two days). This way I get a cup of coffee. Of course, I have to eat it with a knife and fork.

Report Egypt Ready To Offer Suez Guarantees

Say Nasser Preparing This In Answer To Parley Proposal

LONDON (AP) — Egypt was reported prepared today to offer maritime powers treaty guarantees of unimpeded shipping through the Suez Canal.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said President Gamal Abdel Nasser would offer the guarantees— singly or collectively to nations using the canal—as a counterproposal to the demand of 18 nations for internationalization of the Suez.

These sources said the offer probably would be outlined in Nasser's reply to the five-nation Suez Canal Committee.

The committee was delegated to tell the Egyptian president the majority of nations at this week's London Suez Conference want an international board to take over management of the vital waterway.

There still was no official indication in Cairo on whether Nasser would agree to receive the committee.

THE CAIRO diplomatic sources predicted Nasser's reply would flatly reject the proposal from 18 of the 22 nations at the just concluded London conference for internationalization of the Suez. But his counterproposal, they said, would leave the door open for negotiation.

Indonesia, Russia, India and Ceylon were a conference minority who offered a substitute plan for continued Egyptian control of the canal but with an international advisory board—powerless to enforce its recommendations.

Egypt meanwhile sought to hire pilots in West Germany to guide convoys through the canal. A score or more pilots on home leave have not returned since Nasser seized the canal July 26. Others may quit if the canal remains in Egyptian hands.

The Egyptian embassy in Bonn said it had received some applications from German pilots. Egypt is also trying to hire pilots in other countries.

Several of the delegates who attended the conference—including U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of France and West Germany—saw hope that Egypt would accept the emergency proposal.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov warned of serious consequences in the middle east if the West tries to break Egypt's grip on the Suez Canal.

He said military preparations of Britain and France were "flagrant violation of the United Nations charter."

The Soviet Union seemed to be massing its propaganda forces to support a rejection from Nasser of the 18-nation international control plan. Moscow radio said the plan was "a one-sided ultimatum" backed by "the notorious policy of force."

Some top diplomatic officials in Washington were reported concerned over signs that Russia might be deliberately trying to interfere with a negotiated settlement.

Memorial Lake Given 20,000 Fingerling Fish

Stocking Blue Gill And Bass Begins; Water Starts Rising

Local fishermen, anxiously awaiting completion of Pickaway County's Memorial Lake, received good news Friday when it was learned that 20,000 fingerling fish were released in the rapidly growing body of water.

Early Friday, reports indicated that water in the lake was not deep enough to release the large number of fingerlings. However, a substantial increase in water level later in the day prompted officials at the lake site to turn the fish loose.

State wildlife officials said this first supply of fish to be placed in the lake consisted of 10,000 bass and a similar number of blue gills. According to the wildlife men, the fingerlings measured from two to four inches in length.

Several thousand additional fingerlings will be stocked in the lake next Monday and Tuesday the spokesmen went on to say.

THE ENTIRE supply of fish being released here is reportedly coming from federal hatcheries. Information received here several days ago indicated that a surplus of fingerlings existed in the government hatcheries, making it necessary to move the small fish to other water areas.

In addition to the fingerlings now being stocked in the local lake, approximately 100,000 minnows are also scheduled to be released within the next few days. The minnows will supposedly serve as food supplement for the fish eating bass and blue gills.

Wildlife authorities also remarked that black croppies, bull head catfish and breeder bass will be stocked in the lake during the next few months. These fish will probably come from Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County, they said.

Future stocking of larger fish will depend quite a bit on the amount of plant food found in the new lake. Another determining factor is whether or not big fish will be able to survive in the new body of water.

Dr. Kinsey Dies In Bloomington

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, 62-year-old biologist who won fame for his books on human sexual behavior, died here this morning after a brief illness. He had been in a coma from a heart ailment and pneumonia.

Ailing for the last six months, he had been in and out of hospitals in Indianapolis and Bloomington, and his research work had been sharply curtailed.

Kinsey was virtually unknown outside restricted zoological circles until his book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male," became a surprise best seller in 1948. It was followed by a book on female sex behavior in 1953.

"I have no control over what the Chinese Communists say," he declared. "I can't imagine what would bother me less than what the Chinese Communists say."

THE PEIPING radio said late Thursday that Communist planes had damaged a "Chiang Kai-shek plane" about 1 a. m. Thursday over islands southeast of Shanghai. It said the damaged plane flew away toward the southeast, which would be toward Formosa.

Officials said no Nationalist Chinese planes were in the area at the time.

Resigns State Board Post In Job Hassle

CLEVELAND (AP) — H. Horton Hampton said Friday he has resigned as a member of the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission because four of the commission's six members hired a new executive secretary without asking him about it.

The secretary, Prentiss Mooney, now executive director of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, is to take over for Miss Rhea McCarthy Sept. 15.

"Understand that I do not oppose Mooney," said Hampton, vice president of the Nickel Plate Road. "I don't know anything about him."

"But I feel that in a case of such an appointment every member of the commission should have been given the opportunity to interview the person under consideration. And I feel further that we surely should have been able to find someone in Ohio."

Hampton, on the commission since 1940, said the decision to hire Mooney was made July 8 at a meeting attended by Dwight Hatcher, Ellsworth F. Ireland, each of the three nights. Total purse will be $3,600.

Charles Rose is in charge of this department.

Notification of entries must be postmarked by Sept. 6, 1956, either to Charles Rose at Williamsport or to the secretary of the fair.

An entry fee of one dollar per head will be charged, and must accompany each entry blank.

Open class judging will be at 3 p. m. on Thursday, and 9 a. m. on Friday.

In any case where there is no competition, second place money will be paid.

Dairy Cattle
Charles Rose is chairman of this department.

All entry notifications must be postmarked by Sept. 6, 1956. Notifications, as in the case of beef cattle entries, can be mailed either to Rose in Williamsport or to Henry Reid, the fair board secretary.

In this department also an entry fee of one dollar a head will be charged, and must accompany each entry blank.

Open class dairy judging will be Thursday at 9 a. m. and at 2 p. m.

When there is no competition in a class, second place money will be awarded.

Grain
Ralph D. Bolender is chairman.

Exhibits will be accepted all day Tuesday, Sept. 11. They must be in place by 8 p. m. Tuesday.

All entries must be grown by the exhibitor in 1955 or 1956.

In the case of only one entry, the prize will be according to quality. Exhibits will be released at 4 p. m. Saturday, September 15.

Fruit and Vegetables
In both these departments, the rules are the same as those listed for the grain competition. In addition, in the vegetable competition, awards made to the "largest" class will be judged also on quality.

Butter Cow Still Big Fair Feature
The butter cow is back to greet 1956 Ohio State fair visitors. The fair opened Friday and will continue the remainder of the month.

She is one of the attractions in the dairy products building on the state fairgrounds. Carved from butter, the life-size image in the refrigerated glass case is an annual attention-getter at the fair.

Other dairy products features this year, says Frank Koval, Ohio State University extension specialist in dairy technology, include judging contests and displays. In one contest, individuals will compete in judging dairy products; in another various dairy products will be exhibited and judged by experts on the basis of quality.

Two exhibits, in rotating display cases, show what milk is made of and what products are made from milk.

Mark Templeton and Chairman Warren S. Weiant Jr.

Hampton and James W. Rogers, the other member who did not go to the meeting, said no one told them the others were going to hire a new secretary.

In Columbus Friday, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said he was asking Hampton to continue in his post "because his services are vitally needed."

Mrs. Harry Wright is in charge of the Fruit Department. The Rev. S. C. Elsea is in charge of the Vegetable Department.

Flower Show
Mrs. Harry C. Kern is in charge. The show will be open only to residents of Pickaway County.

Exhibits must be in place by 12 noon on Wednesday, September 12. No exhibits will be released until 4 p. m. Saturday.

Premium money to be offered totals $140.

Home-Making
Mrs. J. B. Stevenson is chairman.

Home demonstration shows will be a top feature in this department, which is expected to draw much of the spotlight in this year's fair, being especially planned for women visitors.

Tractor Pulling
Paul Peck is the chairman in charge.

Competition is open to anyone able to drive a tractor and who abides by rules of the contest.

Competition will be divided into five classes: Class A—up to 3,800 lbs.; Class B—3,801 to 5,100 lbs.; Class C—5,101 to 6,200 lbs.; Class D—6,201 to 7,500 lbs.; Class E—7,501 lbs. and up.

The entry fee will be three dollars.

Prizes in each class will be: first, trophy and $20; second, $15; third, $10, and fourth, $5.

Junior Fair
Arrangements are in charge of the Pickaway County Extension Service office.

Juvenile Fine Arts
Miss Martha Reid is chairman.

This department will be supervised by the Circleville Art League.

It is open to any boy or girl of Pickaway County under the age of 19.

Game Official Tells Hunting Violators Not To 'Jump Gun'

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis today issued a warning to all area game hunters, telling them not to "jump the gun" on the coming hunting season.

The statement by Francis stems from a case Friday in which two Commercial Point men were fined a total of $150 and costs for taking two pheasants out of season.

Francis reminded local nimrods that out-of-season game violations are subject to maximum punishment imposed by state game laws. Fines run as high as $200 for each bird of animal illegally taken the game warden pointed out.

Squirrel season is officially slated to open here on Sept. 15. Rabbit and pheasant season opening day is set for Nov. 15.

Young pigs will grow and grow as pigs never grew before if they are fed
NEW Red ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 to 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth—and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

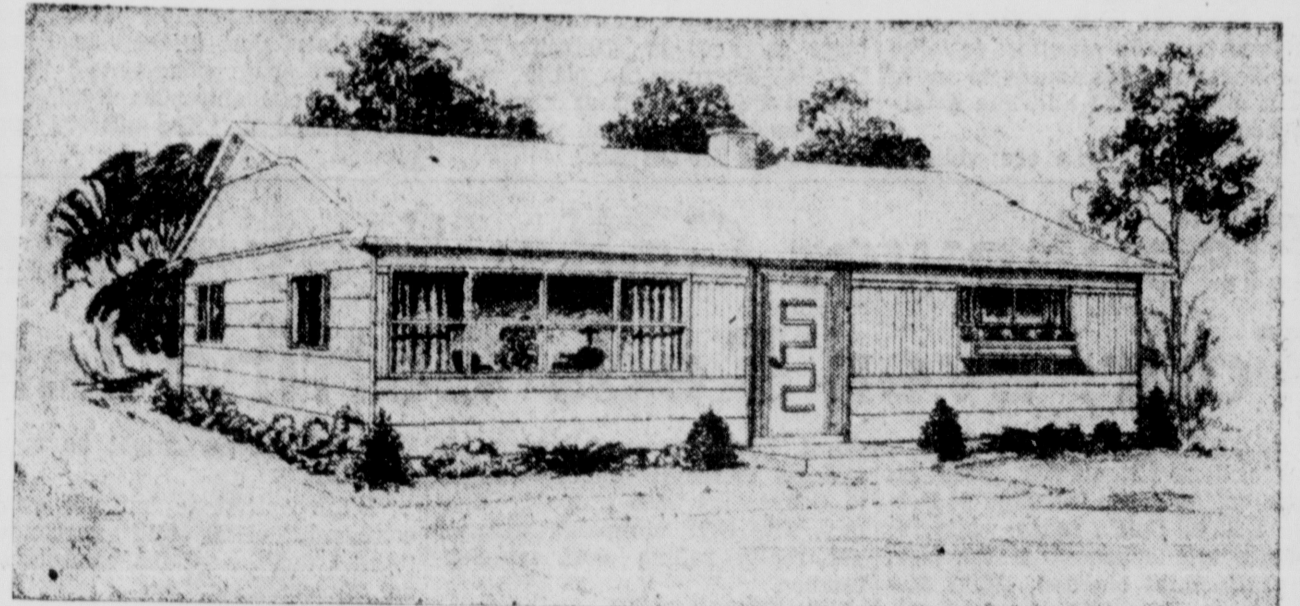

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

What do you think of... when you see a Church?

Have you looked at a church lately?

To almost everyone, the sight of a slender steeple raised to the sky evokes certain emotions—awe, perhaps, nostalgia, maybe—the sense that by not going to church lately, you've been missing something!

Next time you see a church, take a good look . . . and let yourself really feel what you see. If that makes you decide not only to look at the outside but also to go inside, that will be all to the good. For no matter how lovely a home you may live in, it can't compare with God's House. If you open the door, you'll find that, no matter how long you've been away, the welcome is warmer and more wonderful than you'll find anywhere else.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

JAPAN'S TREATY SETBACK

JAPANESE are discovering that Russian smiles and talk of peace do not extend to relinquishing their hold on several Japanese islands they occupied at the end of World War II.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese foreign minister, talked in person with communist bosses Khrushchev and Bulganin but got nowhere in his efforts to regain the Kurile islands of Kunashiri and Etoforu as a part of the Japanese-Russian peace treaty now being negotiated.

A source close to the foreign minister said:

"This is our last chance. We have no hope of winning back those islands now."

Whether this will wreck chances for a treaty, which the Japanese seem to desire greatly, is not clear. Shigemitsu is reported to be willing to sign a treaty which doesn't even mention Kunashiri and Etoforu.

But the Japanese cabinet has sent him word not to accept a Soviet treaty which rejects Japanese claims to these islands. The elderly Shigemitsu bridled at this. He contends he was promised a "free hand" in the negotiations.

It might be assumed that such an exhibition of Soviet stubbornness in holding ill-gotten gains would be an eye opener to many uncommitted nations. But this isn't likely. There have been many examples of Soviet guile in the past 11 years.

In fact, the danger in the long run is that such Soviet firmness actually strengthens the hands of the local communist parties. It gives them an opportunity to argue that if they are placed in power they will be able to negotiate more successfully with the Russians.

This tactic is being pursued by the Russians in West Germany. It seems that it will be applied also to Japan.

MARRY YOUNGER

MANY WRITERS have casually referred to the age at which Americans marry as if it were a well established and incontrovertible fact that both men and women are older today when they enter into matrimony than were their parents or grandparents. Statistics prove this to be an erroneous conclusion.

According to statisticians of a large life insurance company who have delved into reports of the Bureau of the Census, there has been a general trend toward earlier marriages for more than half a century. This trend has been greatly accelerated since World War II.

Today half the men who marry at all do so before the age of 23. For women the median age is 20 years.

Population of the U. S. now includes more than 81 million persons who are married, compared to 60 million in 1940 who were married. At present 70 per cent of the population aged 15 and over is married, compared to 60 per cent in the decade prior to World War II.

The proportion of married men in the 20-24 year age bracket has doubled since 1940—from 27 to 51 per cent.

A younger marriage age undoubtedly has contributed greatly to the current period of prosperity. It has boosted demand for goods and services in every category.

WHAT OF THE WINTER?

WITH AUGUST on its last lap and preparations well under way to reopen schools and launch the football season, can the approach of winter be far away? Yes and no. Imminence, or lack of it, of the approach of colder weather depends on many factors, one of them being the sort of winter that of 1956-57 will be.

A severe winter makes its appearance earlier than a mild winter, on the average. But this is another of those facets of weather that cannot be depended upon. It is not too early for amateur weather prophets to make tentative surveys of the signs and report on their findings. But to date nary a one has ventured forth with a forecast. Surely the cult of amateur weather seers is not a vanishing breed.

Russian scientists, who say they will be flying around the moon soon, are growing conservative. Ordinarily they would claim they had been there.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

While both conventions were stimulating excitement and interest, John Foster Dulles was in London negotiating to prevent World War III from exploding.

If this country was ever on the brink of another war, it was over the Suez Canal issue and our responsibilities to the nations that compose NATO. If the British and French chose to defend themselves at Cairo, the United States could not have remained outside the battle.

Nasser raises as severe a test as Hitler did, because experience with Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin has served as an index to the characteristics of dictators and the dangers involved in any commerce with them and Nasser pursues their pattern at the wrong time and in the wrong place.

Yet, as a practical matter, there is no way of avoiding dealing with men of this type if they are in possession of territory and in control of people. Even when we refuse to recognize an outlaw government such as Red China, we are forced by circumstances to have transactions with it, as we have been negotiating with Red China at Geneva for more than a year, ostensibly over the release of American prisoners of war in that country, but pragmatically as a means of direct contact.

So it must be with Nasser. He is in control of Egypt and he has seized the Suez Canal and the Suez Canal Company and such an act could bring on a war, because Nasser has the support of the Soviet Universal State as well as India.

The question was either to find a formula for peace or to fight. No one could possibly tell where such a war would lead to; on the other hand, if Nasser got away with seizing property to which he did not hold the deed, who could tell how far this precedent would go in the Arabian world?

Dulles' proposal for a world control of the canal has generally proved to be acceptable to most nations at the London conference. Of course, Nasser will have to agree to whatever conclusion is reached or nothing has been accomplished.

On the other hand, if Soviet Russia accepts the American proposal, it would be impossible for Nasser to take an adamant position, although desperate politicians have before this clung to power at any cost. Nasser's program for the development of an Arab universal state led by Egypt depends entirely upon Soviet acquiescence.

Nasser's present display of strength is based upon his alliance with Soviet Russia, an alliance, an understanding, an agreement, whatever it may be, which provides Egypt with modern arms and technical assistance while at the same time absorbing important quantities of Egyptian cotton.

Were it not for this arrangement, whatever it may be, Nasser could not have adopted so recalcitrant an attitude toward the West nor would he have dared arouse the Arab world to the destruction of Israel.

At any rate, if Dulles can win Shepilov and his superiors to a peaceful solution, Nasser will have to accept the London formula for the management of the Suez Canal with whatever face-saving device can be worked out, and there will be no war over this issue. The effort is, of course, worth while because as much as war is unthinkable, it could take place over such incident as the seizure of the Suez Canal Company.

The difficulty with a character like Nasser is that he is not too well understood by those who must do business with him. He is new. He is crass. He is bumptious. He is popular with his own people. He has won a wide acceptance in the Arab world.

It is impossible to ignore Nasser; it is equally difficult to know how to do business with him. Like all dictators, he makes his own rules and changes them in the middle of the game.

But he is there. He has power. He can use that power destructively. He has already brought the world to the brink of war. He might succeed in making war. The necessity then is to find a formula acceptable to Nasser, to Russia, to India and the West.

It has been a stupendous and challenging task and if John Foster Dulles succeeds in establishing such a formula, he is deserving of applause by his countrymen. The people of the United States do not want war; they are very tired of being humiliated.

Thousands of Americans are run down annually by automobiles and probably a hundred times as many by gossips.

Family consultant says a wife should give her husband as much attention as she does her children. In some instances that wouldn't be much.

It is not so difficult to understand how the other half lives as how they can afford it.

CHAPTER 30

THE DIRECTORS' meeting was to be held in the staff room at the clinic, and, five minutes late, Chad ran up the outside steps. In the reception hall a few people sat upon the benches, and as he whizzed past them, Newell and Stella McCrillis glanced at each other, and laughed. He disappeared into his office, pulled off his sweater and changed his shirt.

When Chad entered the staff room he found a half-dozen grave-faced men seated around the bare, gleaming table. Miss Barr was waiting for him. Chad greeted the assembled men and, before he sat down, pulled out the tails of his shirt. It was an odd-looking shirt, tied with strings at the back of his neck; the tail was stenciled plainly in black, "County Hospital."

Every man looked gravely at the shirt, the name and then at each other. Eyebrows went up; lips curled down.

The chairman made a short speech about the reasons for calling this meeting. He was a doctor, and a good one. When he finished he asked Dr. Mays to comment.

Chad rubbed the palm of his hand over his face, shook his head as if to clear it, grinned apologetically and then, getting to his feet said briefly, "Would it make a difference if you knew that all the charges against us have been trumped up?"

Surprise rippled in a double wave down along the table; the chairman showed his by jerking his shoulders, and blowing his breath out between his pursed lips.

"If you have any explanation that would—well—strengthen our case..."

"Dr. Gaskins, you sound as if we already were in court."

"High time to be lining up our side, wouldn't you think?"

"High time," Chad agreed. "But—if we are to make a trial of this meeting, why don't we bring in the other side? Get that Dr. Wilkins-Smith over here, and his lawyer..."

And on that, ignoring all the words being said to him, the shouted demands that followed him, he walked steadily toward the door. "Be back in an hour," he said pleasantly. "You call W-S, get him over here, and some of his hospital gang with him, if they'll come."

He opened the door, turned, then beckoned with his finger to Hazel.

When she came to the door,

Chad hooked his arm through hers. Together they walked down the long hall, and, as he passed the benches, he lifted one finger to Newell McCrillis, who nodded. He let her precede him into the inner office, and he closed the connecting door firmly behind them.

"Dr. Wilkins-Smith won't come," she blurted finally. "Will he?"

"Sure he'll come," Chad smiled at her yawned and plucked the ridiculous white shirt away from his ribs.

"I know," he said lazily, "that you want to phone your pal, Wilkins-Smith. Report to him. But you might as well relax, Hazel. I'm not going to let you do it."

He pushed his chair away from the desk, pulled a foot out of its moccasin, laid it across the other knee. "Another thing I know," he said slowly. "You gave the complete file on Stella McCrillis to him and so it reached the newspapers. Still another something I know." He pulled at his earlobe. "I know that Wilkins-Smith planted you here in my office."

She gulped, and began to weep. "I was ready to help him fight the clinic," she said finally. "But when I met you—and knew what you were like—I told him that I wasn't going to be smart enough. I told him his scheme wouldn't work."

"Why didn't you leave?" Her smile was ravishing. "By then, I didn't want to," she admitted. "By then I had come to—admire—you." Her voice dropped. "I love you. I'm on your side."

Chad Mays laughed. Loudly, merrily.

"You said you knew what I was," Chad taunted her. "Didn't you expect me to laugh? Surely, if you know me so well, you realize that you in no way approach my ideal of a woman I could love. The girl I love is a lady. Barr. No gesture of hers would offend or look vulgar, no move she'd make, nor any word of hers, would be the considered one of expediency. She—"

"Why, you red-headed ape! You quack! You—"

She knew all the words, and she used them. A gong clattered in her throat. She would, she threatened in a brassy scream, fix Chad Mays.

Her face was distorted with anger, her green eyes shot sparks. Chad's mind was working rapidly, fitting the last pieces of the puzzle into their proper places. "You men never stop to think that a woman could kill a man" for being that kind of a heel, and not even be sorry."

"A man," said Chad softly, "named Britton Van Horn?"

Hazel stopped cold. "You kicked up a row, didn't you?" Chad asked inexorably. "When he said that he was done with you? Such a row, coupled with threats to expose him, that he had an occlusion and died."

"He tried to pay me off," she said sulkily. "He brought me money from Alice Milburn and told me that I had to get out. He shouldn't have done that, Chad, after all we'd been to each other."

"It was a fatal mistake," Chad agreed politely. Then, his voice was as soft as cotton, "How did you manage to fasten suspicion on Alice?"

"Oh, that part was easy," said Hazel brazenly. "He had this attack in my apartment—dropped like he'd been shot. I called Claude. It was he who suggested that we take Brit home—to save scandal and talk, you know. We'd make it seem as if he'd died as he was putting his car into the garage—"

"And that's why," mused Chad, "you had to come here as Wilkins-Smith's stooge. Because he had something on you?"

"Well, I—I was the one who told him that the clinic would ruin him. But, yes—I—"

Chad watched her for another second or two. Then he laughed, and dropped his chair far enough so that his hand could reach the row of buttons on his desk. Muttering something about her bad memory, he snapped one of the buttons, leaned over to take a spool from the recorder in the open desk drawer beside him.

With the spool in his hand, he stood up, went around Hazel as if she were not there, walked steadily through the outer office, down the hall and along to Miss Duckett's desk.

He laid the small reel beside that nurse's hand. "Keep this with you, Miss Duckett. I want you to hang on to it until I have a record of the Board meeting to go with it. If you leave, take it with you. Above all things," he said, "do not give it to Miss Barr. She is no longer my secretary. I've fired her."

His moccasin soles slapping the floor, he passed the bench where the McCrillis sat, went on to the door of the Board room. With his hand on the knob, he looked back over his shoulder. Miss Barr was going out through the front door. Moving fast!

Try, Stop Me
At 2:20 a. m. on April 15, 1912, the liner Titanic sank on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic, after an iceberg had ripped out its bottom a few hours previous: 705 survivors were brought to New York aboard the rescue ship, Carpathia. Over 1500 lives were lost. Walter Lord's "A Night to Remember" gives a graphic and unforgettable picture of the Titanic disaster. It also calls attention to an amazing coincidence. Fourteen years before the Titanic sank, an author named Morgan Robertson wrote a novel called "Futility" which described a catastrophe at sea so prophetic as to seem almost unbelievable. Robertson's ship also hit an iceberg, it also was on its maiden crossing, it also was heralded as "unsinkable," it also carried enough lifeboats to care for only a fraction of its passengers. But most startling of all: Morgan Robertson's imaginary ship was named the Titan!

DIET AND HEALTH

Keep Medicine Chest Ready For Emergency

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ACCIDENTS and illness occur in every home. Are you prepared to aid a stricken member of your family even if he's suffered only a minor scratch or cut?

Unfortunately, many homes don't have the proper equipment to furnish adequate first aid.

You owe it to your family to be prepared. Your medicine cabinet and first aid kit should contain the following articles recommended by the American Red Cross.

Individual Packages
At least a dozen 1-inch compresses on adhesive in individual packages. The same number of 3" by 3" sterile gauze squares in individual packages. A roll of one-half inch adhesive tape.

Burn ointment.
Calamine lotion, epsom salts, oil of cloves, aromatic spirits of ammonia and some bicarbonate of soda.

Rubber Stopper
If you buy spirits of ammonia in a bottle, be sure it has a rubber stopper. Ordinary cork will soon rot.

Your home first aid equipment should also include a hot water

bag and an ice bag. Allow either to dry thoroughly before putting it away after use. Rubber bags should be dusted with talcum powder before being stored away.

You should have a 3-inch splinter forceps for removing splinters and the like and, of course, a pair of scissors.

Some 1 and 2-inch roller band-aids might come in handy, as will an inelastic tourniquet.

Wire and Splints

Although broken bones, as any other serious injury, require immediate attention of a doctor, you might have need for some wire or thin board splints.

Castor oil or mineral oil for use in emergency treatment of the eyes can be kept on hand in a small tube.

It won't do you much good to have all these things if they are scattered throughout the house. Keep them all together so you'll be able to find them when you need them.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. E. S.: My baby has a discharge from the navel. What could be the cause?

Answer: It may be some chronic infection present which has failed to clear up, or an abscess of the navel.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

One of the first arrivals in San Francisco was Harold E. Stassen for - Herter - for - Vice-President. He proved it's the early worm that gets the bird.

It's not true that the Republican convention was cut and dried. The only Republican who was cut was Harold E. Stassen, and they're still drying the hotels.

The City of San Francisco could have done a better job with how-to-get-around instructions. How to get round downhill only.

Some of the older delegates have had enough uphill.

The GOP delegates exhaled confidence, which indicates the Republican elephant's memory doesn't go back far. Not as far as 1948, anyway.

Double Ring Rites Unite Miss Newman-Mr. Pontius

Bride Takes Vows In Nylon Dress

Mr. and Mrs. Warren O. Harmon of 137 Pleasant St. are announcing the marriage of her daughter, Miss Sharon Newman, to Mr. Victor Pontius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Pontius of Kingston.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. S. C. Elsea, before an improvised altar decorated with vases of pink and white asters.

The bride was attired in a pink nylon dotted dress. She wore white accessories and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Sandra McAlister and Miss Leola Harmon served as the bride's attendants. Miss McAlister wore a dress of blue nylon and Miss Harmon wore a blue and white cotton dress.

Serving as best man was Mr. Jerry Lee Dunkle, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table.

The new Mrs. Pontius is a graduate of Circleville High School in the class of 1956.

Mr. Pontius was graduated from Pickaway Township High School and is presently a senior at Ohio State University, Columbus, in the college of education.

Good Sauces Add Extra Flavor To Tempting Dessert

Sauces add an extra touch of goodness to a tempting dessert. Here is one that goes especially well with ice cream.

To prepare two cups sauce, combine 1/4 cup water, one-third cup light corn syrup and 1/4 cup sugar. Boil together until mixture forms a soft ball when a small amount is dropped in cold water.

Remove from heat and fold in 16 marshmallows that have been quartered with wet scissors.

When marshmallows are melted, pour hot mixture slowly into a bowl containing two stiffly-beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Fold in 1/2 cup sliced dates. Store in clean glass jars in the refrigerator.

For a refreshing cooler that is well-fortified with easy-to-take nourishment, combine two cups freshly-made, double strength coffee, four tablespoons chocolate syrup, four tablespoons sugar and two cups milk. Chill.

Pour into tall glasses and top with a generous spoonful of chocolate, coffee, vanilla or butterscotch ice cream, then stir well to serve. Makes four servings.

For an easy-to-fix but impressive dessert, make gingerbread as directed on gingerbread mix package. Bake in custard cups or large muffin pans.

While hot, split open. Fill with sliced fresh peaches and peach or vanilla ice cream.

Top with more ice cream and peach slices and serve hot.

Want a new waffle or pancake topper? Blend together equal parts of apricot jam and honey and flavor with ground allspice to taste.

Household Hints

Season canned creamed corn with chili powder and serve with tamales and a green salad for a good supper main course.

Stir grated cucumber (seeds removed before grating) into a diet dressing and serve over sliced tomatoes to the weight-watcher in your family.

Add a dash of garlic powder, celery salt and nutmeg to the flour you use for coating chicken pieces. Fry the chicken by whichever method you prefer and serve with broiled pineapple slices.

Cook a package of frozen mixed vegetables and drain; mix with mayonnaise and lemon juice. Serve on salad greens as an accompaniment to cold meat.

Stir finely chopped toasted coconut into softened vanilla ice cream, then store in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Paris Collections Created In New Miracle Fabrics

Sharing the spotlight on the current Paris collections, acclaimed as among the most beautiful in the long history of the great French country, are many impressive evening costumes done by top houses in a wide variety of miracle fabrics.

Among the collections, a new type of satin made of unblended acrylic fiber, one of the latest man-made materials, is used for the pink dinner dress shown in the above picture. The bodice is fitted and has three-quarter sleeves. From two roses placed above the waistline of the frock at center back, floats a drifting chiffon panel, caught into the harem-like hem.

Flying panels, important in the Paris silhouette, fall into a graceful train of the next creation. The floor-length model is slim to the knees, then flares to back fullness. It is in tones of blue and blue-gray, with a strapless black bodice finished with a soft fold of blue at the top.

The third evening gown to be described is done in white and gold fabric reembodying in gold with a mauve taffeta stole. It features the long torso look, combined with a full, graceful skirt.

Williamsport Class Of 1936 Holds Reunion

The 1936 graduating class of Williamsport High School held its annual reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lozier of near Circleville.

The following class members were present: Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Carter of Mechanicsburg; George W. Smith, Eugene Anderson, Egbert Hanson of Columbus; Dan Noble and Kervyn Morrison, Williamsport; Mrs. Lozier, Miss Margie Carmean, Miss Mary Clark, Harold Gibson and Conway Stonerock of Circleville.

Guests included, Mrs. George W. Smith and children, Mrs. Eugene Anderson and children, Mrs. Dan Noble and children, Mrs. Kervyn Morrison and daughters, Mrs. Harold Gibson and son, Billy, Roger Lozier and son, Rodney, Judy, Tommy, Dick and June Carter.

Grange Members Conduct Meeting

Members of Salt Creek Valley Grange met in regular session for the latest meeting with worthy Master Donald DeLong in the chair.

It was announced that the Grange will hold a picnic supper at 6:30 p. m. September 4, and the county-wide Grange Square Dance contest will be held September 27 in Walnut Township School after the Grange banquet.

Following the business the group counted sales tax stamps.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Stump, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shride and Mr. and Mrs. William Deffenbaugh.

Members of the September lunch committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maxson and Raymond and Wanda, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maxson, Mr. and Mrs. George Rihl and Wayne and Cryder and Frances Bowsher.

Emma Hill Feted On 7th Birthday

Emma Hill was entertained by her mother, Mrs. Henry Hill of Laurelville, who gave a party for Emma's seventh birthday.

During the afternoon the honored guest opened her gifts and the group enjoyed playing games.

Guests were: Robby, Cathy and Francine McNichols; Larry McKensie, Tommy Lutz, David Strous, Earnie Brown, Peggy Brown, Sissie Brown, Glen Knece, Mary Evelyn and Henry Hill Jr. and the honored guest.

Cancer Society To Hold Dinner

The annual meeting of the Pickaway County Cancer Society will open with a dinner to be served at 6:30 p. m. September 5 in Pickaway Arms.

The group will elect officers during the session.

Any city or county resident, who has contributed a dollar or more to the society, is eligible to attend the meeting.

Reservations may be made with Dr. Richard Samuel of 122 1/2 N. Court St. or phone 730.

New Spray Bottle Of Perfume Has Lasting Fragrance

If you have been bemoaning the fact that cologne lacks lasting qualities, look to a new fragrance product that may solve your complaints.

Similar to cologne, it is longer lasting. What is more, it is packed in an aerosol bottle that sprays a super-fine mist of scent. This, in part, accounts for its long-lasting quality.

According to its creator, the spray breaks the perfume oil into such minute particles they sink right into your skin, and so the fragrance stays and stays!

Speaking sprays, there is another new one that is designed for girdles and would seem to be a boon in warm weather. It is an aerosol that sprays talcum powder, perfumed with a light honeysuckle fragrance, on the girdle, making it easy to slide in and out of on even the stickiest days.

Another new item that has come along is strictly for the boys, little ones. It is a terry cloth catcher's mitt designed for use as a wash cloth and it comes with a soap baseball.

Republican Club To Attend Picnic

Pickaway County Women's Republican Club received an invitation from the Ross County Women's Republican Club to attend the group's annual picnic.

The event will be held at 6 p. m. Thursday at Meade Park, Hickory St., Chillicothe.

All local members are invited to attend and are asked to take their own table service and a covered dish.

Highlighting the session will be a talk by Reed Benson.

Cut the top from a green pepper and remove seeds and white membranes. Slice into wide rings. Fill rings with egg salad.

Sunshine Class Holds Meeting With Mrs. Cline

The Sunshine Class of Ashville Evangelical United Brethren Church met in the home of Mrs. Guy Cline with Mrs. Russell Costlow, assisting hostess.

Following the business session games were conducted and prizes were won by Maud Plummer, Linda Ann Brown, Easter Wallen and Frances Smith.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to 12 members. Eleanor Foreman and Mary Kreiger are the hostesses for the September meeting.

Score hamburger patties before broiling. When meat is browned and cooked fill scoring lines with chili sauce. Looks pretty!

Ohio Horse Wins Heat At Chicago

Brown Breaks Hand But Lifts Lightweight Crown

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—I had to gamble, it was the only way to win," a tired but happy Joe Brown said today, nursing a broken right hand but holding a newly won lightweight championship as balm for his wounds.

The 30-year-old ex-carpenter from New Orleans, who fashioned quick reflexes and a stinging left jab as tools of his trade, finished with a whirlwind rally in the late rounds to gain a split decision and lift Wallace (Bud) Smith's title Friday night.

Brown, the target for Smith's pursuit during most of the nationally televised 15-round, smashed the 27-year-old Cincinnati titleholder to the floor twice in the 14th round. Smith rose from the canvas weary and dazed and a target for Brown's right in the final round.

But the finishing right never came as the 9,200 fans screamed for a knockout.

"I couldn't throw it," Brown said as he squinted through marks of battle over his eyes and on his cheekbone.

"I broke the hand in the second round when I popped him on the chin," he said, recalling the right that buckled Smith's knees. "I gambled in the 14th by throwing the first right since the second and it really hurt."

It really hurt Smith, too. He slumped to the canvas with blood streaming from his mouth and nose. He rose as the count reached seven, but Brown sent him sprawling again against the ropes. The bell sounded as the count reached nine with Smith on his knees.

The decision, labeled "home-town" by Smith's trainer, Adolph Ritacco, was split with one of the judges voting for Smith. Brown was ahead on Referee Roland Brown's card, 12-3, and Judge Charles Dabney's tab had Brown a 9-3-3 winner. Judge Frederick Adams voted for Smith 7-6-2. The AP had Smith ahead 8-7.

X-ray examination of the hand showed a bone broken in the wrist that probably will shelve Brown for several weeks.

Smith, who initiated most of the aggression before the big crowd that paid a gross gate of $43,900, had no argument with the decision.

"The fellows who are paid judge the fight, not me," he said.

Giants Meet Green Bay In Top Pro Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Giants and Green Bay Packers, both entertaining ideas of a division championship this year, meet tonight at Green Bay, Wis., in the feature of a three-game National Football League exhibition program.

Both teams looked impressive in their exhibition debuts last week—the Giants with a 28-10 victory over the Baltimore Colts and Green Bay with a 27-6 romp over Philadelphia.

Detroit plays the Chicago Cardinals at Mobile, Ala., and Baltimore and the Pittsburgh Steelers clash at Cincinnati in other warm-up games tonight.

Detroit is 1-0, having opened with a 20-15 decision over the Steelers. Baltimore has split two games while the Cards were dumped by their cross-town Chicago rivals, the Bears 31-7, in their only game.

The Bears, who expect to battle Los Angeles and Green Bay in the league's western division, made it two in a row Friday night, defeating the Eagles 28-21 before 30,011 at Philadelphia with newcomer Perry Jeter again in the hero's role.

The setback scored two more touchdowns, including one on an 81-yard punt return that snapped a 21-21 tie in the fourth quarter.

Adrian Burk passed for all three Philadelphia touchdowns, two going to John Bredec, the big rookie end from Boston University.

At Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum, the Rams treated 40,175 fans to a 17-7 whipping of the defending champion Cleveland Browns, the second loss for the Browns since they spanked the College All-Stars 16-0.

Drama Marks Handicap Fete At Vandalia

VANDALIA (AP)—The 57th grand American Trapshoot closes today with four championships being decided, but anything that happens will appear drab in comparison to Friday's windup of the sport's No. 1 event.

That was the Grand American Handicap, a 100 - target feature carrying a $15,000 purse which attracted 2,145 shooters, the greatest entry any clay target event has ever known.

The title went to C. W. Brown, 46, of Dayton, who broke 99 of 100 from 20 yards to get into a three-way tie, then defeated his opponents in a shootout packed with drama.

Opposing Brown in the extra heat were Durwood L. Baumgartner of Houston, Tex., and Gallipolis, Ohio, and Paul Baker, 33, from Brookville, Ohio.

Brown, Baker and Baumgartner each registered the best score of his career in getting into the shoot off, Brown winning the 25-target extra event with 23, Baker taking second with 22 and Baumgartner third with 18.

Up for decision today are the doubles championship, the Vandalia Handicap and the high overall and all-around titles.

The three top men in the Grand American were expected to split up some $12,000 in prize money. Baumgartner said he would use his winnings to complete payments on a trailer.

Baumgartner, a traveling construction worker, was born in Kansas, lists Houston as his permanent home, registered for the shoot from Gallipolis, has been working several months at Crestline, and headed back to Houston today.

Plans Appeal Of Olympics Ban

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—William Smith, U. S. Olympic wrestling champion, says he will appeal a Central AAU decision barring him from further competition.

Smith was barred by the organization earlier this week on charges of having been paid to coach at a Rock Island, Ill., high school.

Marvin I. Thomas, chairman of the registration committee investigating charges against Smith, said "Smith did not produce any creditable evidence to alter the fact" he received payment as a wrestling coach during four years with the Rock Island school system.

Bobo Eligible For Ohio State Team

COLUMBUS (AP)—Hubert Bobo, star fullback of Ohio State University's 1954 national champion football team, is eligible for the 1956 season.

University President Novice G. Fawcett announced Friday Bobo made up a scholastic deficiency in

Pitcher Hero To Little Leaguers

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—A 12-year-old pitcher - second baseman and a "good man with the wood" is the toast of the Little League baseball world after clouting a 3-run homer Friday that gave him the Roswell, N. M., club the 10th annual Little League World Series championship.

Tom Jordan, son of a former catcher for the Chicago White Sox and the old St. Louis Browns, hit his home run in the fourth inning to give the westerners a 3-1 win over Delaware Twp., N. J., runner-up for the second consecutive year.

After putting his club in the lead, the little right-hander took the hill with amazing poise and proceeded to strike out the next six batters in a row to end the contest with a total of 13 strikeouts.

Bachelor Governor Comes Visiting

OVERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Oberlin College's president, his wife and their pretty 28-year-old daughter are hosts here this weekend to Gov.

Haines To Head Guard Artillery

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has advanced Col. Howard F. Haines of Columbus to brigadier general and commander of the division artillery in Ohio's 37th Infantry division.

Col. Haines will succeed Maj. Gen. Kenneth Cooper who recently took over command of the 37th. Haines served as executive officer of the division artillery.

Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber recently resigned as commander of the 37th.

Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, Oberlin President William E. Stevenson described Meyner's trip as just a visit to see the family.

Helen Stevenson flew to Cleveland from New York Friday not far behind a flight made by Meyner.

Meyner, 48, sometimes described as one of the most eligible bachelors in the nation, made the keynote speech at Oberlin's mock Democratic convention last May.

Miss Stevenson, a cousin of Adlai Stevenson, reportedly works for the Stevenson - for - President Committee in New York.

State's Soil Supervisors Reminded Big Task Is Still Ahead

Conservation Leaders Attend Annual School

Panel Recommends Continuation Of Rural Life Sunday

Four local representatives were present this week when supervisors of the state's soil conservation districts, attending their annual school at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, were reminded that "selling" the idea of soil conservation is still an uphill job.

The warning came from Bob Grieser, Clark Soil Conservation District Supervisor and president of the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts. He was the main speaker at a gathering of approximately 200 district supervisors, their wives, friends and co-workers.

Present from Pickaway County were Dr. Wells Wilson of Circleville Route 1; Paul Peck of New Holland Route 1; Frank Groves of Kingston Route 1, and Ralph May of 157 W. Mound St. Also widely known in this district in all projects designed to spread the idea of saving the nation's farm soil is Don Archer.

Grieser told his audience: "We've come a long way in 11 years, but we still have a greater distance to travel if we want to get our job done."

OTHER GROUPS and speakers were also on the program.

"Rural Life Sunday," a cooperative venture between churches and soil conservation districts, was most successful in 1956 and should be continued in 1957, according to a panel of district supervisors and ministers appearing before the group.

District supervisors, and farmers in general, must take an ever increasing interest in proposed water legislation dealing with water rights and related water problems, according to Clair Guess of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and Virgil Overholt, Extension Engineer emeritus, Ohio State University.

"The Soil Bank Program may have far-reaching effects on the efforts of Soil Conservation Districts. District Supervisors' advice and counsel will be required if the program is to most effectively operate," declared J. E. Bradfute of the Commodity Stabilization Service.

"Soil Conservation District Supervisors have a big challenge to meet all the opportunities and responsibilities of their jobs," Floyd Heft, Executive Secretary of the Ohio Soil Conservation Committee, stated.

Depression Over Debts Told By Wife Of Kidnap Suspect

PLAINVIEW, N. Y. (P)—Quietly but tensely, Mrs. Angelo A. LaMarca told in halting phrases the grim account of her husband's arrest in the Weinberger baby kidnapping.

As to his guilt or innocence she said simply: "I don't know."

She said she had no inkling of what was in store when she and her husband arrived at their new home in this Long Island community at 2 a. m. Thursday.

They had taken their two children to the home of her husband's parents at Elmont, Long Island.

As they entered the driveway to their home, she said, two cars carrying four FBI men pulled alongside.

The FBI men got out. Speaking of her husband, Mrs. LaMarca said:

"He wanted to know what they wanted. They told him they wanted to search the house."

"They came in and searched the house. Then two of the men took Angelo away and two men stayed with me."

Before her husband was taken she said, "I asked him what was wrong — what happened — and he told me not to worry about anything."

Mrs. LaMarca, a 31-year-old brunette, spoke to newsmen at her home.

Mrs. LaMarca said that their 10½ years of marriage had been "pretty happy"—but that in the past few months they had encountered financial difficulties.

She said they had not been able to pay August payments on their $15,000 home into which they moved last May. She also said that other bills had not been met but declined to give their amounts.

However, she said things had taken a turn for the better recently when her husband obtained work with a moving firm. He previously had been a taxicab driver working at night.

She said she had noticed no particular change in her husband during the past two months except that "he was depressed about our bills."

Asked if she could recall the activities of her husband on July 4—the day of the kidnapping—she gave this account:

"He was home during the day. He went out in the evening. I thought about 6:30 or 7 o'clock and was supposed to be driving a cab during the evening, getting home at 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning. And as far as I can remember that was when he came home the next day."

Mrs. LaMarca described her husband as "a very good father" to their children, Vincent, 9, and Vivian, 6.

American Saga: Immigrant Boy Entertains The Vice President

By JOHN CHADWICK

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—One of the untold stories of the Republican convention, an Ohio delegate disclosed, is about the immigrant baker boy from Fremont, Ohio, who entertained Vice President Nixon at dinner.

The story is about Tony Szymanowski, who came to this country from his native Poland almost 50 years ago at the age of 18 with just $7 in his pocket.

Now a prosperous baker in Fremont, in northwestern Ohio, Szymanowski gave a dinner here Tuesday night for the Ohio delegates to the convention, and Nixon was present as the honored guest.

When Nixon heard Szymanowski's story he said, "this is the story of the American way of life."

Nixon was seated at Szymanowski's right. Also at the head table was Mrs. Nixon, seated beside Szymanowski's wife.

George D. Brabson of Findlay, Ohio, a tax attorney for an oil company and a delegate to the convention, was so impressed that he sat down and wrote out an account of the immigrant boy who entertained the vice president of the United States.

He recounted how Tony had settled in the little town of Fremont, found a job and married and then, in the hard times of 1909, lost his job just as the young couple was expecting a child.

"One thing Tony knew he could do," Brabson related. "He could make the best Polish doughnuts in Fremont. So Tony and his wife started to make doughnuts and sell them to the neighbors."

Soon Szymanowski found he could sell more doughnuts than he and his wife could make. He hired a couple of girls, and then more girls.

His business grew, and his family grew, and in time Szymanowski had five sons and a flourishing bakery in which pies and breads and cakes as well as doughnuts were made and sold.

Grateful for his blessings, Szymanowski talked one day to the county Republican chairman and asked what he could do to help. He became a precinct worker, then a precinct chairman and later a member of the county executive committee.

"Just five years ago," Brabson said, "he was made county chairman and a few months ago Tony Szymanowski, the Polish immigrant boy from Lodz of 50 years ago, was elected one of the delegates from Ohio to the Republican National Convention."

Four Reluctant On State Purchase Of Cedar Point

CLEVELAND (P)—Four of the 10 members of the Ohio Legislature's Committee to Study Acquisition of Cedar Point believe the state should spruce up the parks it owns now before it buys any more.

"I think we should spend on what we already own before buying new areas to develop," Rep. F. K. Cassell of Carey, committee chairman, commented Friday. Agreeing with him were Rep. Frank Gorman of Cleveland, Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek of Cleveland and Rep. David Lewis of New Lexington.

The committee met last Wednesday and discussed Cedar Point with Sandusky officials. They postponed any official recommendations until an Erie County court case is settled.

The court must decide whether to approve a plan for a real estate syndicate to buy the resort from a trust which owns 51 per cent of the common stock in the G. A. Boeckling Co., owner of the land.

After the real estate group announced they hoped to develop the land into a residential area, Gov. Frank Lausche advocated that Ohio purchase the point for a state park.

Polio Fades Out

CINCINNATI (P)—Health officials reported a rarity here Friday: No polio cases at General Hospital for the first time in many summers.

Timken Signs For Modified Union Shop, Pay Raise

CANTON, Ohio (P)—Timken Roller Bearing Co. and the United Steelworkers Friday signed a three-year contract providing a modified union shop plan and wage and fringe benefits worth 21 cents an hour to 10,000 production employees.

John S. Johns, district director of the Steelworkers, acclaimed the most outstanding ever negotiated with Timken.

Timken management long had opposed any form of union shop, and was an advocate of the "right-to-work" philosophy.

The pact is subject to approval of Timken employees in Canton, Columbus, Zanesville, Wooster and Mount Vernon who will vote on it over the weekend.

The union shop compromise requires all new employees to join the steelworkers in 30 days or lose their jobs. But after they have been employed six months, they are allowed a 15-day period in which they may quit the union without penalty if they wish.

Wages were raised 11 cents hourly. Johns did not have the average wage scale at hand, but said more than those in Big Steel; women slightly less. The minimum hiring rate for men is $1.88 under the new pact; the starting rate for women $1.71.

Plan Relocation Along Highway 40

COLUMBUS (P)—Nearly 22 miles of U. S. 40 between Kirkersville and Brownsville in southern Licking County will be relocated by late 1958 at an estimated cost of 22 million dollars.

This has been announced by L. F. Schaeublin, first assistant director of the state highway department. The new section will be four-lane with limited access.

Principal objections to the project will be overcome by the state agreeing to keep the present section of U. S. 40 in the state highway system, Schaeublin said.

Shirley Booth Has Regrets About Quickie Academy Award

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Shirley Booth leaned back in her chair beside her swimming pool and said, "I wish I hadn't won the Academy award so soon."

Not that the Oscar—for her 1952 portrayal of a frumpy hausfrau in "Come Back Little Sheba"—has done her any harm, Shirley added.

"But, I felt it came much too quickly. It was my first motion picture, you know. I always think you should work up to something," she said.

Her success on the stage with "Sheba" and subsequent plays came after many years of hard work, frustration and tears. Miss Booth, by the way, made her Broadway debut in 1925 along with a young fellow named Humphrey Bogart.

The red-haired actress is a temporary Hollywoodian while appearing in the play, "The Desk Set."

"It's a funny thing," she went on, "when success arrives in your later years, no one is envious at all. Older people hope the same lightning might strike them; the

Workers Back

TIFFIN (P)—The 150 employees who walked out Thursday at the General Electric Co. motors plant returned to their jobs Friday. The workers, who said they were demonstrating against piece-work rate cuts, plan to pursue the issue through the United Electrical Workers.

HUNT GOES ON FOR PLANE SURVIVORS

County Fair's Attractions To Feature Wide Variety

Big Program Arranged For Women Is Highlight; Three Nights Of Harness Racing Again Listed

Henry Reid, secretary of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society, today traced an outline of the fair's wide variety of features and new arrangements planned for this year's county fair.

The big annual display will open for a four-day run on September 12. Pickaway County's fairgrounds are located on the eastern edge of Circleville.

Activities of the 4-H clubs and Future Farmers of America groups will, as usual, predominate the fair's program. Among the other main highlights, however, will be a greatly increased program especially aimed to interest women, and a renewal of the popular night harness racing.

REVIEWING the fair's planning by the main committees, divisions or competition, Reid announced the following:

Midway and Concessions
The Midway will be planned and managed again this year by the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce. Don Jenkins is chairman of the committee.

This committee will book all concession space for the Midway and for other sections of the fairgrounds. Anyone desiring space at the fair for any purpose should contact Jenkins. His phone number is 471-X.

All rides for the Midway will be furnished by the Gooding Amusement Company.

The Midway this year will be expanded and extended up a new road toward the cattle barns. This change will bring the Midway fun closer to the largest group of people on the grounds, and will eliminate hill-climbing for many of the Midway visitors.

More space has been rented for commercial exhibits this year than for any previous fair here.

General Planning
The road from the coliseum down to the grandstand will be paved to make walking easier. This is only one of the many improvements drawn from a suggestion contest conducted, after the 1955 fair, by the fair board and The Circleville Herald.

A new set of scales will be installed, so that livestock can be weighed accurately at the barn.

Bombers Take Off From Lockbourne In Six-Day Test

COLUMBUS (AP)—Thirty-two jet bombers took off from nearby Lockbourne Air Force Base Friday night to launch the Strategic Air Command's six-day "world series of bombing."

Richmond, Va., Springfield, Mass., and Montreal, Que., were the target cities in the eighth annual contest in which the aircraft send out radar impulses instead of real bombs. The accuracy of each "bombing run" is determined by ground units which receive the impulses.

In all, 66 B47 Stratojets and their reconnaissance counterparts, RB47s, will fly out of Lockbourne—defending champion in the contest—and four jet B52s and 16 B-36s will fly out of Loring AFB, Limestone, Me.

Air Vice Marshal Sydney Buxton, deputy commander of the Royal Air Force's Bomber Command, was among six British observers on hand here. He said the RAF would like to enter the competition next year.

Trial Delayed

NEW YORK (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello, 65, serving five years for income tax evasion, has won a 19-day delay in his denaturalization trial—from Sept. 5 to Sept. 24. The Italian-born Costello had asked a 30-day postponement because of a heart ailment.

Balloting for directors of the fair board will be held at the secretary's office during the fair.

Membership tickets, costing $1.50 will entitle the holder to parking and admission to all sessions of the fair. These tickets also enroll the holder as a member of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society for one year.

Granges of the county have volunteered their efforts to sell tickets and man the gates.

A cement dancing floor—45-by-45 feet—will be set up by the Junior Fair Board, the first time this attraction has been included in the fair's program.

Fund Advanced For Old Age Pension Use

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state controlling board has acted to prevent a 20 per cent cut in September old age pensions to nearly 98,000 Ohioans receiving pension benefits.

The board authorized transfer of more than two million dollars appropriated for pensions in the last quarter of this fiscal year for payments in the first quarter.

Rep. J. Frank McClure (R-Ashland), House finance committee chairman, said the transfer was necessary to assure full pension payments in the first quarter of the bookkeeping year which started July 1.

He said the additional money also would permit payment for health and nursing care for pensioners costing about $500,000 a month.

The additional cost for such care followed removal last July 1 of the $200-a-year ceiling on those payments.

McClure said the fund transfer would create an old age pension appropriation deficit with which the next Legislature, meeting in January, will have to deal.

McClure said legislation removing the health-care ceiling "should never have been passed without going through the finance committee."

He said that the legislation should not have been left up to members of the welfare committee because "money means nothing to them."

Although Ohio will have a deficit in old age pension funds for the fiscal year ending next June 30, McClure said federal money received after Oct. 1 will cut the shortage. The Legislature will have to deal with the remaining deficit, he added.

Judge Orders Iron Ore Ship Unloaded

LORAIN (AP)—In compliance with a federal judge's order, District 50 of the United Mine Workers Friday night called men back to unload the 10,500-ton iron ore cargo from the Tom M. Girdler, which has been tied up at the Baltimore and Ohio dock here for a week.

The mine workers had refused to unload the vessel because it was picketed by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. and the Master, Mates and Pilots Assn., which are on strike for recognition as bargaining agent for licensed personnel on the Girdler and 57 other ore carriers.

During the tie-up, 107 empty cars have been lined up waiting to haul the ore to the Jones & Laughling Steel Corp. plant in Aliquippa, Pa.

The Toledo, Lorain & Fairport Dock Co. got the injunction Friday from Federal Judge James C. Connell. The judge set Sept. 4 as the date for hearing on a permanent injunction.

Walks From Crash

a highly attractive list of prizes for the 1956 fair. Among the prizes already arranged are two bicycles, to be awarded to children on Friday, September 14.

That day will be Children's Day at the fair. All rides will operate in the afternoon at a reduced price. A special program has been formed for the youngsters.

Two games of six-man football will be played by four county schools.

A safe-driving Auto Rodeo will again be among the features. Plans are to have an adult class in this event, in addition to the youth competition. Prizes and trophies will be awarded.

Bud Harden will again have charge of the music festival. Entries already include 12 bands and the Circleville Drum and Bugle Corps.

Emerson Brown will be in charge of the horse show planned by the Ashville Riding Club.

The popular event is scheduled for the closing afternoon of the fair. Plans are to have the show open to all contestants. In the past, it has been restricted to county residents.

A trap-shooting contest, sponsored by the Williamsport American Legion, will be open to all. There will be no entry fee. The event will be held Thursday and Friday of the fair week at the rifle range.

J. B. Stevenson will be in charge of the horse-shoe pitching contest. The event will have adult and youth classes.

J. B. Stevenson will also be in charge of the bait-casting contest, which likewise will have adult and youth classes.

Harness Racing
Harness racing will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. George Van Camp, chairman for this attraction, says more horses than last year will be in the races.

There will be no pari-mutuel betting. All races will be two heats, with three races scheduled for

Couple Charged In Cross-Burning

COLUMBUS (AP)—A Columbus couple, charged with violating a state law prohibiting riots, will be arraigned Tuesday in connection with the burning of a cross outside the home of a Negro family.

Clayton K. Jones, 32, and his wife, Phyllis, 30, were released from county jail Friday on $250 bond each after affidavits were filed against them. The charge is a misdemeanor.

Sheriff's officers said a kerosene-soaked cross was burned Aug. 14 on the lawn of the George Lawson home in an effort to force the Negro and his family to move from an otherwise all-white neighborhood.

Jones and his wife are white.

Eisenhower Golfs; Stevenson Maps Tour; Even Reds Getting Into Act

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Eisenhower bided his time on the green fairways of Pebble Beach, Calif., today while his Democratic opponent in the Nov. 6 presidential election, Adlai Stevenson, prepared for a quick campaign start.

Stevenson planned a late morning meeting at his Libertyville, Ill., farm home with running-mate Estes Kefauver for electioneering mapwork prior to a whirlwind, cross-country handshaking trip.

The two candidates will take off at 8 a. m. Monday from Chicago.

Santa Fe, N.M., will be the first stop. Other parleys will be held at Vancouver, Wash.; Sioux City, Iowa; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Chicago. Stevenson officially will launch his campaign with a Labor Day address at Detroit Sept. 3.

Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf Friday at the exclusive Cypress Point course at Monterey Peninsula—the first time he had gone that far since his surgery on June 9.

Two Nine-Year Old Boys Cause $200 Loss In City School House

Two nine-year-old Southend boys, accused of entering Walnut St. School and causing an estimated $200 in damage, were apprehended by city police Friday afternoon.

According to police reports, the two youths entered the school building sometime Thursday afternoon. Both floors of the building were thoroughly ransacked and police officers said.

Sgt. George Green and Officer Bob Temple declared almost everything in the school was raided by the two youngsters. "The whole building looked as if a cyclone had passed through it," the investigating officers agreed.

The policemen said that the boys apparently removed several heavy fire extinguishers from the walls and emptied their contents on the floor. Medical equipment in two first-aid cabinets were also destroyed and thrown about the building.

stroyed and thrown about the building.

IN ADDITION, the two youngsters reportedly poured ink in black board troughs and on the floors. Several boxes of crayons were broken and scattered all over the classrooms.

After committing the acts of destruction on the first two floors of the school building, the youths went to the attic.

While in the attic the boys destroyed Christmas ornaments and decorations, officers Green and Temple declared. The Christmas trimmings apparently were thrown against the wall or on the floor the policemen said.

Green and Temple reported they found a pitchpipe, several softballs and a knife on the boys when they were apprehended Friday afternoon. The items reportedly were taken from the school building.

The police officers said all work necessary for the opening day of school had just been completed inside the Walnut School building.

The front door of the school had been left open police noted. "The two boys probably noticed this and just walked in," the officers explained.

Seek Accomplice In Kidnaping Case

Authorities Want To Know Who Had Weinberger Baby Overnight

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—Police sought to learn today whether a friend helped the swarthy kidnaper who left little Peter Weinberger to die in a roadside tangle of honeysuckle vines.

Authorities said Angelo John LaMarca, 31, mechanic, told them he took the baby to Brooklyn and left him overnight with a friend only hours after the Fourth of July kidnaping.

"The identity of the friend in Brooklyn mentioned by LaMarca is unknown and the whereabouts unknown," a police official said. "He has repeatedly refused to identify the person or the place."

LaMarca's wife told newsmen: "Someone else is involved but he won't say who."

LaMarca, a bushy-haired man with two children of his own, was held without bail for a further hearing next Friday on a kidnaping charge. He made no plea.

Authorities said a murder count probably will be added to the kidnaping indictment sought from the grand jury.

Meanwhile, a policeman was locked in with the dejected prisoner to guard against any suicide attempt.

LaMarca was charged with kidnaping the 32-day-old infant from the patio of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger's ranch home in Westbury, N. Y.

LaMarca was quoted by police as saying he abandoned the child the next day after he panicked in a vain attempt to collect $2,000 in ransom to meet a pile of debts.

Searchers found the decomposed remains of the infant Friday in underbrush near a heavily traveled Long Island parkway a half mile north of the LaMarca home in Plainville.

"Even if the child was alive when it was placed on the ground, it may well constitute murder," said Dist. Atty. Frank Gulotta.

Under New York law a person who causes a death while committing a felony is liable to first degree murder charges, punishable by death in the electric chair. Kidnaping also carries a maximum penalty of death in the electric chair.

The parents, Morris Weinberger, 48, a prosperous drug salesman, and his wife, Betty, 32, had never given up hope through all the desperate weeks since the kidnaping that their baby was still alive. Friends said their reaction to the news was very severe. They have an older son.

LaMarca was arrested early Thursday at his home. He was tracked down after a painstaking FBI search through more than two million handwriting samples.

The ransom note bore certain handwriting quirks. FBI men finally found matching peculiarities in LaMarca's signature in federal district court records in New York City. LaMarca received a suspended sentence last year on a bootlegging charge.

Helicopter In First Flight Across Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has flown a helicopter on the first transcontinental, nonstop trip in an attempt to prove the practicability of long-range "copter flight."

A weary five-man crew landed a twin-engine H21 at the Pentagon's heliport late Friday afternoon, ending a 31-hour and 40-minute flight from San Diego, Calif.

Four aerial refuelings were used to enable the normally short-ranged machine to make the 2,610 mile trip across the United States.

When daylight and weather permitted, the helicopter "drank" fuel through a hose from a small tanker plane which accompanied it. Twice the H21 hovered near the ground while gas was pumped up through a hose.

The Army said the trip proved that helicopters can be flown long distances to reach battle zones in wartime. It also seemed to prove that man's ears can stand a day and a half of the thundering din of an engine and whirling rotors, with only a few winks of sleep.

Capt. James E. Bowman, Army, Ind., first pilot, said the crew ate "in-flight lunches," another name for cold box lunches. Once during a refueling some hot coffee was passed to them.

Ohio Pilot Killed In Hawaii Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—Maj. Victor A. Thielborn, 39, husband of the former Edna N. Claypool, Columbus, Ohio, was one of two Air Force pilots killed Friday when their T33 jet training plane crashed at Barbers Point Naval Air Station.

The other airman killed was Maj. William R. Utt Jr., 38, Kansas City, Mo.

The Air Force said the plane flamed out on an instrument landing and crashed into two other aircraft parked off the runway.

Navy Officials Say Search On 'At Full Force'

Body Of Ohioan Is Only One Recovered Since Aerial Battle

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—U. S. Vice Adm. Stuart Ingersoll, commander of the 7th Fleet, said the search had been terminated for survivors of a Navy patrol plane downed off the Red China coast.

But in Washington Pentagon officials said the search is continuing "at full force."

The Washington announcement came from the office of Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations.

Naval officials at the Pentagon said: "You can say the search has not been discontinued and as a matter of fact will continue in full force. The same number of ships and planes is participating in the hunt. When the search is abandoned it will be announced here."

Ingersoll's announcement here said the hunt was called off at 11:25 a. m. (9:25 p. m. EST) Friday after "all possibility of locating survivors was exhausted."

Ingersoll said ships and aircraft which took part in the search were ordered to return to their normal operating schedules.

THE NAVY Department in Washington announced that the body of one of 16 crewmen aboard the four-engine P4M Mercator was recovered Friday in "international waters" amid the wreckage of the plane about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai.

He was identified as Technician 1. C. Albert P. Mattin of Delta, Ohio.

The last radio message from the patrol craft said it was under aerial attack off the China coast.

Red China protested that the search conducted by the U. S. 7th Fleet violated Chinese territory.

Peiping radio accused the Americans of an "act of military provocation" and of "grave provocation to the Chinese people." The broadcast charged at least 54 U. S. planes violated the area near

Death Rate Higher In Coal Mines

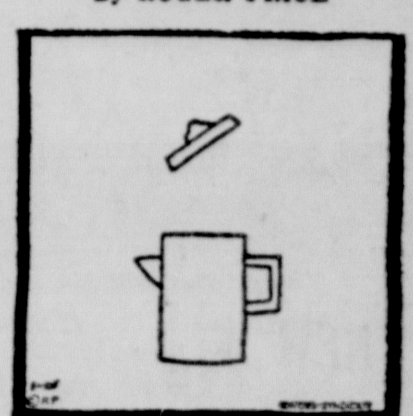

WASHINGTON (AP)—Coal mine accidents caused 41 deaths during July, the Bureau of Mines has reported.

The fatality rate of 1.61 per million man hours of work time was the highest for any month since December, 1951. In that month, the rate was 2.63 as the direct result of an explosion disaster in an Illinois mine which killed 119.

Based on production, the fatality rate last month was 1.27 per million tons, the highest for any 1956 month.

"COFFEE POT" FLIPPING ITS LID

These days people are always hollering that the art of making a "really good" cuppa coffee has vanished along with Irium, Davey Crockett and chewing tobacco. Actually these people have trouble because they make their coffee too weak. Coffee should be strong. I'm a normal coffee drinker (48 cups a day) and I make mine using the Scandinavian method. First I put a pound of coffee (fine grind) into the pot and then add a pinch of salt, two raw eggs and a picture of Anita Eckberg. Then comes the important part. I add no water. I let the coffee boil in its own juices for a while (no longer than two days). This way I get a cup of coffee coffee. Of course, I have to eat it with a knife and fork.

Report Egypt Ready To Offer Suez Guarantees

Say Nasser Preparing This In Answer To Parley Proposal

LONDON (AP) — Egypt was reported prepared today to offer maritime powers treaty guarantees of unimpeded shipping through the Suez Canal.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said President Gamal Abdel Nasser would offer the guarantees— singly or collectively to nations using the canal—as a counterproposal to the demand of 18 nations for internationalization of the Suez.

These sources said the offer probably would be outlined in Nasser's reply to the five-nation Suez Canal Committee.

The committee was delegated to tell the Egyptian president the majority of nations at this week's London Suez Conference want an international board to take over management of the vital waterway.

There still was no official indication in Cairo on whether Nasser would agree to receive the committee.

THE CAIRO diplomatic sources predicted Nasser's reply would flatly reject the proposal from 18 of the 22 nations at the just concluded London conference for internationalization of the Suez. But his counterproposal, they said, would leave the door open for negotiation.

Indonesia, Russia, India and Ceylon were a conference minority who offered a substitute plan for continued Egyptian control of the canal but with an international advisory board—powerless to enforce its recommendations.

Egypt meanwhile sought to hire pilots in West Germany to guide convoys through the canal. A score or more pilots on home leave have not returned since Nasser seized the canal July 26. Others may quit if the canal remains in Egyptian hands.

The Egyptian embassy in Bonn said it had received some applications from German pilots. Egypt is also trying to hire pilots in other countries.

Several of the delegates who attended the conference—including U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and the foreign ministers of France and West Germany—saw hope that Egypt would accept the emergency proposal.

But Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov warned of serious consequences in the middle east if the West tries to break Egypt's grip on the Suez Canal.

He said military preparations of Britain and France were "flagrant violation of the United Nations charter."

The Soviet Union seemed to be massing its propaganda forces to support a rejection from Nasser of the 18-nation international control plan. Moscow radio said the plan was "a one-sided ultimatum" backed by "the notorious policy of force."

Some top diplomatic officials in Washington were reported concerned over signs that Russia might be deliberately trying to interfere with a negotiated settlement.

Memorial Lake Given 20,000 Fingerling Fish

Stocking Blue Gill And Bass Begins; Water Starts Rising

Local fishermen, anxiously awaiting completion of Pickaway County's Memorial Lake, received good news Friday when it was learned that 20,000 fingerling fish were released in the rapidly growing body of water.

Early Friday, reports indicated that water in the lake was not deep enough to release the large number of fingerlings. However, a substantial increase in water level later in the day prompted officials at the lake site to turn the fish loose.

State wildlife officials said this first supply of fish to be placed in the lake consisted of 10,000 bass and a similar number of blue gills. According to the wildlife men, the fingerlings measured from two to four inches in length.

Several thousand additional fingerlings will be stocked in the lake next Monday and Tuesday the spokesmen went on to say.

THE ENTIRE supply of fish being released here is reportedly coming from federal hatcheries. Information received here several days ago indicated that a surplus of fingerlings existed in the government hatcheries, making it necessary to move the small fish to other water areas.

In addition to the fingerlings now being stocked in the local lake, approximately 100,000 minnows are also scheduled to be released within the next few days. The minnows will supposedly serve as food supplement for the fish eating bass and blue gills.

Wildlife authorities also remarked that black croppies, bull head catfish and breeder bass will be stocked in the lake during the next few months. These fish will probably come from Rocky Fork Lake in Highland County, they said.

Future stocking of larger fish will depend quite a bit on the amount of plant food found in the new lake. Another determining factor is whether or not big fish will be able to survive in the new body of water.

Dr. Kinsey Dies In Bloomington

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, 62-year-old biologist who won fame for his books on human sexual behavior, died here this morning after a brief illness. He had been in a coma from a heart ailment and pneumonia.

Ailing for the last six months, he had been in and out of hospitals in Indianapolis and Bloomington, and his research work had been sharply curtailed.

Kinsey was virtually unknown outside restricted zoological circles until his book, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male," became a surprise best seller in 1948. It was followed by a book on female sex behavior in 1953.

Shanghai and the Tchen Islands Friday.

Ingersoll, commander of the 7th Fleet, dismissed the charges. "I have no control over what the Chinese Communists say," he declared. "I can't imagine what would bother me less than what the Chinese Communists say."

THE PEIPING radio said late Thursday that Communist planes had damaged a "Chiang Kai-shek plane" about 1 a. m. Thursday over islands southeast of Shanghai. It said the damaged plane flew away toward the southeast, which would be toward Formosa.

Officials said no Nationalist Chinese planes were in the area at the time.

The Navy said the Mercator was on a routine patrol and training mission from Japan when it flashed the attack signal early Thursday. The message went out when the aircraft was 160 miles north of Formosa over international waters, the Navy said.

The message gave no details of how many planes were in the attack, their nationality or whether the Navy plane was returning fire.

Resigns State Board Post In Job Hassle

CLEVELAND (AP) — H. Horton Hampton said Friday he has resigned as a member of the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission because four of the commission's six members hired a new executive secretary without asking him about it.

The secretary, Prentiss Mooney, now executive director of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, is to take over for Miss Rhea McCarthy Sept. 15.

"Understand that I do not oppose Mooney," said Hampton, vice president of the Nickel Plate Road. "I don't know anything about him."

"But I feel that in a case of such an appointment every member of the commission should have been given the opportunity to interview the person under consideration. And I feel further that we surely should have been able to find someone in Ohio."

Hampton, on the commission since 1940, said the decision to hire Mooney was made July 8 at a meeting attended by Dwight Hatcher, Ellsworth F. Ireland, each of the three nights. Total purse will be $3,600.

Beef Cattle

Charles Rose is in charge of this department.

Notification of entries must be postmarked by Sept. 6, 1956, either to Charles Rose at Williamsport or to the secretary of the fair.

An entry fee of one dollar per head will be charged, and must accompany each entry blank.

Open class judging will be at 3 p. m. on Thursday, and 9 a. m. on Friday.

In any case where there is no competition, second place money will be paid.

Dairy Cattle

Charles Rose is chairman of this department.

All entry notifications must be postmarked by Sept. 6, 1956. Notifications, as in the case of beef cattle entries, can be mailed either to Rose in Williamsport or to Henry Reid, the fair board secretary.

In this department also an entry fee of one dollar a head will be charged, and must accompany each entry blank.

Open class dairy judging will be Thursday at 9 a. m. and at 2 p. m.

When there is no competition in a class, second place money will be awarded.

Grain

Ralph D. Bolender is chairman. Exhibits will be accepted all day Tuesday, Sept. 11. They must be in place by 8 p. m. Tuesday.

All entries must be grown by the exhibitor in 1955 or 1956.

In the case of only one entry, the prize will be released at 4 p. m. Saturday, September 15.

Fruit and Vegetables

In both these departments, the rules are the same as those listed for the grain competition. In addition, in the vegetable competition, awards made to the "largest" class will be judged also on quality.

Butter Cow Still Big Fair Feature

The butter cow is back to greet 1956 Ohio State fair visitors. The fair opened Friday and will continue the remainder of the month.

She is one of the attractions in the dairy products building on the state fairgrounds. Carved from butter, the life-size image in the refrigerated glass case is an annual attention-getter at the fair.

Other dairy products features this year, says Frank Koval, Ohio State University extension specialist in dairy technology, include judging contests and displays. In one contest, individuals will compete in judging dairy products; in another various dairy products will be exhibited and judged by experts on the basis of quality.

Two exhibits, in rotating display cases, show what milk is made of and what products are made from milk.

Mark Templeton and Chairman Warren S. Weiant Jr.

Hampton and James W. Rogers, the other member who did not go to the meeting, said no one told them the others were going to hire a new secretary.

In Columbus Friday, Gov. Frank J. Lausche said he was asking Hampton to continue in his post "because his services are vitally needed."

Game Official Tells Hunting Violators Not To 'Jump Gun'

Pickaway County Game Protector Clarence Francis today issued a warning to all area game hunters, telling them not to "jump the gun" on the coming hunting season.

The statement by Francis stems from a case Friday in which two Commercial Point men were fined a total of $150 and costs for taking two pheasants out of season.

Francis reminded local nimrods that out-of-season game violators are subject to maximum punishment imposed by state game laws. Fines run as high as $200 for each bird of animal illegally taken the game warden pointed out.

Squirrel season is officially slated to open here on Sept. 15. Rabbit and pheasant season opening day is set for Nov. 15.

Grow-little pigs-grow....

Young pigs will grow and grow as pigs never grew before if they are fed

NEW Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 to 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth — and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

What do you think of... when you see a Church?

Have you looked at a church lately?

To almost everyone, the sight of a slender steeple raised to the sky evokes certain emotions—awe; perhaps, nostalgia, maybe—the sense that by not going to church lately, you've been missing something!

Next time you see a church, take a good look... and let yourself really feel what you see. If that makes you decide not only to look at the outside but also to go inside, that will be all to the good. For no matter how lovely a home you may live in, it can't compare with God's House. If you open the door, you'll find that, no matter how long you've been away, the welcome is warmer and more wonderful than you'll find anywhere else.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

JAPAN'S TREATY SETBACK

JAPANESE are discovering that Russian smiles and talk of peace do not extend to relinquishing their hold on several Japanese islands they occupied at the end of World War II.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese foreign minister, talked in person with communist bosses Khrushchev and Bulganin but got nowhere in his efforts to regain the Kurile islands of Kunashiri and Etoforu as a part of the Japanese-Russian peace treaty now being negotiated.

A source close to the foreign minister said:

"This is our last chance. We have no hope of winning back those islands now."

Whether this will wreck chances for a treaty, which the Japanese seem to desire greatly, is not clear. Shigemitsu is reported to be willing to sign a treaty which doesn't even mention Kunashiri and Etoforu.

But the Japanese cabinet has sent him word not to accept a Soviet treaty which rejects Japanese claims to these islands. The elderly Shigemitsu bridled at this. He contends he was promised a "free hand" in the negotiations.

It might be assumed that such an exhibition of Soviet stubbornness in holding ill-gotten gains would be an eye opener to many uncommitted nations. But this isn't likely. There have been many examples of Soviet guile in the past 11 years.

In fact, the danger in the long run is that such Soviet firmness actually strengthens the hands of the local communist parties. It gives them an opportunity to argue that if they are placed in power they will be able to negotiate more successfully with the Russians.

This tactic is being pursued by the Russians in West Germany. It seems that it will be applied also to Japan.

MARRY YOUNGER

MANY WRITERS have casually referred to the age at which Americans marry as if it were a well established and incontrovertible fact that both men and women are older today when they enter into matrimony than were their parents or grandparents. Statistics prove this to be an erroneous conclusion.

According to statisticians of a large life insurance company who have delved into reports of the Bureau of the Census, there has been a general trend toward earlier marriages for more than half a century. This trend has been greatly accelerated since World War II.

Today half the men who marry at all do so before the age of 23. For women the median age is 20 years.

Population of the U. S. now includes more than 81 million persons who are married, compared to 60 million in 1940 who were married. At present 70 per cent of the population aged 15 and over is married, compared to 60 per cent in the decade prior to World War II.

The proportion of married men in the 20-24 year age bracket has doubled since 1940—from 27 to 51 per cent.

A younger marriage age undoubtedly has contributed greatly to the current period of prosperity. It has boosted demand for goods and services in every category.

WHAT OF THE WINTER?

WITH AUGUST on its last lap and preparations well under way to reopen schools and launch the football season, can the approach of winter be far away? Yes and no. Imminence, or lack of it, of the approach of colder weather depends on many factors, one of them being the sort of winter that of 1956-57 will be.

A severe winter makes its appearance earlier than a mild winter, on the average. But this is another of those facets of weather that cannot be depended upon. It is not too early for amateur weather prophets to make tentative surveys of the signs and report on their findings. But to date nary a one has ventured forth with a forecast. Surely the cult of amateur weather seers is not a vanishing breed.

Russian scientists, who say they will be flying around the moon soon, are growing conservative. Ordinarily they would claim they had been there.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

While both conventions were stimulating excitement and interest, John Foster Dulles was in London negotiating to prevent World War III from exploding.

If this country was ever on the brink of another war, it was over the Suez Canal issue and our responsibilities to the nations that compose NATO. If the British and French chose to defend themselves at Cairo, the United States could not have remained outside the battle.

Nasser raises as severe a test as Hitler did, because experience with Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin has served as an index to the characteristics of dictators and the dangers involved in any commerce with them and Nasser pursues their pattern at the wrong time and in the wrong place.

Yet, as a practical matter, there is no way of avoiding dealing with men of this type if they are in possession of territory and in control of people. Even when we refuse to recognize an outlaw government such as Red China, we are forced by circumstances to have transactions with it, as we have been negotiating with Red China at Geneva for more than a year, ostensibly over the release of American prisoners of war in that country, but pragmatically as a means of direct contact.

So it must be with Nasser. He is in control of Egypt and he has seized the Suez Canal and the Suez Canal Company and such an act could bring on a war, because Nasser has the support of the Soviet Universal State as well as India.

The question was either to find a formula for peace or to fight. No one could possibly tell where such a war would lead to; on the other hand, if Nasser got away with seizing property to which he did not hold the deed, who could tell how far this precedent would go in the Arabian world?

Dulles' proposal for a world control of the canal has generally proved to be acceptable to most nations at the London conference. Of course, Nasser will have to agree to whatever conclusion is reached or nothing has been accomplished.

On the other hand, if Soviet Russia accepts the American proposal, it would be impossible for Nasser to take an adamant position, although desperate politicians have before this clung to power at any cost. Nasser's program for the development of an Arab universal state led by Egypt depends entirely upon Soviet acquiescence.

Nasser's present display of strength is based upon his alliance with Soviet Russia, an alliance, an understanding, an agreement, whatever it may be, which provides Egypt with modern arms and technical assistance while at the same time absorbing important quantities of Egyptian cotton.

Were it not for this arrangement, whatever it may be, Nasser could not have adopted so recalcitrant an attitude toward the West nor would he have dared arouse the Arab world to the destruction of Israel.

At any rate, if Dulles can win Sheplov and his superiors to a peaceful solution, Nasser will have to accept the London formula for the management of the Suez Canal with whatever face-saving device can be worked out, and there will be no war over this issue. The effort is, of course, worth while because as much as war is unthinkable, it could take place over such incident as the seizure of the Suez Canal Company.

The difficulty with a character like Nasser is that he is not too well understood by those who must do business with him. He is new. He is crass. He is bumptious. He is popular with his own people. He has won a wide acceptance in the Arab world.

It is impossible to ignore Nasser; it is equally difficult to know how to do business with him. Like all dictators, he makes his own rules and changes them in the middle of the game.

But he is there. He has power. He can use that power destructively. He has already brought the world to the brink of war. He might succeed in making war. The necessity then is to find a formula acceptable to Nasser, to Russia, to India and the West.

It has been a stupendous and challenging task and if John Foster Dulles succeeds in establishing such a formula, he is deserving of applause by his countrymen. The people of the United States do not want war; they are very tired of being humiliated.

Thousands of Americans are run down annually by automobiles and probably a hundred times as many by gossips.

Family consultant says a wife should give her husband as much attention as she does her children. In some instances that wouldn't be much.

It is not so difficult to understand how the other half lives as how they can afford it.

CHAPTER 30

THE DIRECTORS' meeting was to be held in the staff room at the clinic, and, five minutes late, Chad ran up the outside steps. In the reception hall a few people sat upon the benches, and as he whizzed past them, Newell and Stella McCrillis glanced at each other, and laughed. He disappeared into his office, pulled off his sweater and changed his shirt.

When Chad entered the staff room he found a half-dozen grave-faced men seated around the bare, gleaming table. Miss Barr was waiting for him. Chad greeted the assembled men and, before he sat down, pulled out the tails of his shirt. It was an odd-looking shirt, tied with strings at the back of his neck; the tail was stenciled plainly in black, "County Hospital."

Every man looked gravely at the shirt, the name and then at each other. Eyebrows went up; lips curled down.

The chairman made a short speech about the reasons for calling this meeting. He was a doctor, and a good one. When he finished he asked Dr. Mays to comment.

Chad rubbed the palm of his hand over his face, shook his head as if to clear it, grinned apologetically and then, getting to his feet said briefly, "Would it make a difference if you knew that all the charges against us have been trumped up?"

Surprise rippled in a double wave down along the table; the chairman showed his by jerking his shoulders, and blowing his breath out between his pursed lips.

"If you have any explanation that would—well—strengthen our case..."

"Dr. Gaskins, you sound as if we already were in court."

"High time to be lining up our side, wouldn't you think?"

"High time," Chad agreed. "But—if we are to make a trial of this meeting, why don't we bring in the other side? Get that Dr. Wilkins-Smith over here, and his lawyer..."

And on that, ignoring all the words being said to him, he shouted demands that followed him, he walked steadily toward the door. "Be back in an hour," he said pleasantly. "You call W-S, get him over here, and some of his hospital gang with him, if they'll come." He opened the door, turned, then beckoned with his finger to Hazel.

When she came to the door,

Chad hooked his arm through hers. Together they walked down the long hall, and, as he passed the benches, he lifted one finger to Newell McCrillis, who nodded. He let her precede him into the inner office, and he closed the connecting door firmly behind them.

"Dr. Wilkins-Smith won't come," she blurted finally. "Will he?"

"Sure he'll come," Chad smiled at her, yawned and plucked the ridiculous white shirt away from his ribs.

"I know," he said lazily, "that you want to phone your pal, Wilkins-Smith. Report to him. But you might as well relax, Hazel. I'm not going to let you do it."

He pushed his chair away from the desk, pulled a foot out of its moccasin, laid it across the other knee. "Another thing I know," he said slowly. "You gave the complete file on Stella McCrillis to him and so it reached the newspapers. Still another something I know." He pulled at his earlobe. "I know that Wilkins-Smith planted you here in my office."

She gulped, and began to weep. "I was ready to help him fight the clinic," she said finally. "But when I met you—and knew what you were like—I told him that I wasn't going to be smart enough. I told him his scheme wouldn't work."

"Why didn't you leave?" Her smile was ravishing. "By then, I didn't want to," she admitted. "By then I had come to—admire—you." Her voice dropped. "I love you. I'm on your side."

Chad Mays laughed. Loudly, merrily.

"You said you knew what I was," Chad taunted her. "Didn't you expect me to laugh? Surely, if you know me so well, you realize that you in no way approach my ideal of a woman I could love. The girl I love is a lady. Barr. No gesture of hers would offend or look vulgar, no move she'd make, nor any word of hers, would be the considered one of expediency. She—"

"Why, you red-headed ape! You quack! You—"

She knew all the words, and she used them. A gong clattered in her throat. She would, she threatened in a brassy scream, fix Chad Mays.

Her face was distorted with anger, her green eyes shot sparks. Chad's mind was working rapidly, fitting the last pieces of the puzzle into their proper places. "You men never stop to think that a woman could kill a man for being that kind of a heel, and not even be sorry."

"A man," said Chad softly, "named Britton Van Horn?"

Hazel stopped cold.

"You kicked up a row, didn't you?" Chad asked inexorably. "When he said that he was done with you? Such a row, coupled with threats to expose him, that he had an occlusion and died."

"He tried to pay me off," she said sulkily. "He brought me money from Alice Milburn and told me that I had to get out. He shouldn't have done that. Chad, after all we'd been to each other."

"It was a fatal mistake," Chad agreed softly. Then, his voice was as soft as cotton. "How did you manage to fasten suspicion on Lance?"

"Oh, that part was easy," said Hazel brashly. "He had this attack in my apartment—dropped like he'd been shot. I called Claude. It was he who suggested that we take Brit home—to save scandal and talk, you know. We'd make it seem as if he'd died as he was putting his car into the garage."

"And that's why," mused Chad, "you had to come here as Wilkins-Smith's stooge. Because he had something on you?"

"Well, I—I was the one who told him that the clinic would ruin him. But, yes—I—he—"

Chad watched her for another second or two. Then he laughed, and dropped his chair far enough so that his hand could reach the row of buttons on his desk. Muttering something about her bad memory, he snapped one of the buttons loose and took it to the open desk drawer beside him.

With the spoon in his hand, he stood up, went around Hazel as if she were not there, walked steadily through the outer office, down the hall and along to Miss Duckett's desk.

He laid the small reel beside that nurse's hand. "Keep this with you, Miss Duckett. I want you to hang on to it until I have a record of the Board meeting to go with it. If you leave, take it with you. Above all things," he said, "do not give it to Miss Barr. She is no longer my secretary. I've fired her."

His moccasin soles slapping the floor, he passed the bench where the McCrillis sat, went on to the door of the Board room. With his hand on the knob, he looked back over his shoulder. Miss Barr was going out through the front door. Moving fast!

SEVEN DAYS—A JOHNSON QUIZ—1

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

At 2:20 a. m. on April 15, 1912, the liner Titanic sank on its maiden voyage across the Atlantic, after an iceberg had ripped out its bottom a few hours previous: 705 survivors were brought to New York aboard the rescue ship, Carpathia. Over 1500 lives were lost.

Walter Lord's "A Night to Remember" gives a graphic and unforgettable picture of the Titanic disaster. It also calls attention to an amazing coincidence.

Fourteen years before the Titanic sank, an author named Morgan Robertson wrote a novel called "Futility" which described a catastrophe at sea so prophetic as to seem almost unbelievable. Robertson's ship also hit an iceberg, it also was on its maiden crossing, it also was heralded as "unsinkable," it also carried enough lifeboats to care for only a fraction of its passengers. But most startling of all: Morgan Robertson's imaginary ship was named the Titan!

DIET AND HEALTH

Keep Medicine Chest Ready For Emergency

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ACCIDENTS and illness occur in every home. Are you prepared to aid a stricken member of your family even if he's suffered only a minor scratch or cut?

Unfortunately, many homes don't have the proper equipment to furnish adequate first aid.

You owe it to your family to be prepared. Your medicine cabinet and first aid kit should contain the following articles recommended by the American Red Cross.

Individual Packages

At least a dozen 1-inch compresses on adhesive in individual packages. The same number of 3" by 3" sterile gauze squares in individual packages.

Additional sterile bandage compresses of assorted sizes, all in individual packages. A roll of one-half inch adhesive tape.

Burn ointment. Calamine lotion, epsom salts, oil of cloves, aromatic spirits of ammonia and some bicarbonate of soda.

Rubber Stopper

If you buy spirits of ammonia in a bottle, be sure it has a rubber stopper. Ordinary cork will soon rot.

Your home first aid equipment should also include a hot water

bag and an ice bag. Allow either to dry thoroughly before putting it away after use. Rubber bags should be dusted with talcum powder before being stored away.

You should have a 3-inch splinter forceps for removing splinters and the like and, of course, a pair of scissors.

Some 1 and 2-inch roller bandages might come in handy, as will an inelastic tourniquet.

Wire and Splints

Although broken bones, as any other serious injury, require immediate attention of a doctor, you might have need for some wire or thin board splints.

Castor oil or mineral oil for use in emergency treatment of the eyes can be kept on hand in a small tube.

It won't do you much good to have all these things if they are scattered throughout the house. Keep them all together so you'll be able to find them when you need them.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

T. E. S.: My baby has a discharge from the navel. What could be the cause?

Answer: It may be some chronic infection present which has failed to clear up, or an abscess of the navel.

Double Ring Rites Unite Miss Newman-Mr. Pontius

Bride Takes Vows In Nylon Dress

Mr. and Mrs. Warren O. Harmon of 137 Pleasant St. are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sharon Newman, to Mr. Victor Pontius, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Pontius of Kingston.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. S. C. Elsea, before an improvised altar decorated with vases of pink and white asters.

The bride was attired in a pink nylon dotted dress. She wore white accessories and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Sandra McAlister and Miss Leola Harmon served as the bride's attendants. Miss McAlister wore a dress of blue nylon and Miss Harmon wore a blue and white cotton dress.

Serving as best man was Mr. Jerry Lee Dunkle, cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table.

The new Mrs. Pontius is a graduate of Circleville High School in the class of 1936.

Mr. Pontius was graduated from Pickaway Township High School and is presently a senior at Ohio State University, Columbus, in the college of education.

The last meeting of the Merry Mixers 4-H Club was held in Circleville High School with 25 members and guests present.

The meeting opened with Anna Styers leading the group in repeating the pledge of allegiance and the 4-H pledge.

Mrs. Leora Sayre graded the following projects at this session: Sewing projects; "Let's Sew," Articles to Use and Wear; "School Dress I," "Sports Clothes" and "Dress Up Dress."

Baking projects were: cakes, cookies, yeast bread, rolls and pies.

Two members completed the child care project and one member, flower gardening.

Following the grading and modeling of the handwork the group was served punch, cookies and sandwiches.

Centering the tea tables were flower arrangements by Dale Hatfield.

Those serving were: Ann Glitt, Linda Reid, Sue Moats, Judy Eddy and Bette Fraser.

Guests for the session were: Mrs. Sayre and her niece Nancy, Mrs. Gordon Fraser, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. Hamrick and Miss Overly.

Announcement was made that the club held its picnic at Gold Cliff Park and the group held the club tour in Cincinnati in conjunction with another Circleville club.

The members voted to give a donation to the home economics

Good Sauces Add Extra Flavor To Tempting Dessert

Sauces add an extra touch of goodness to a tempting dessert. Here is one that goes especially well with ice cream.

To prepare two cups sauce, combine 1/4 cup water, one-third cup light corn syrup and 1/4 cup sugar. Boil together until mixture forms a soft ball when a small amount is dropped in cold water.

Remove from heat and fold in 16 marshmallows that have been quartered with wet scissors.

When marshmallows are melted, pour hot mixture slowly into a bowl containing two stiffly-beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Fold in 1/2 cup sliced dates. Store in clean glass jars in the refrigerator.

For a refreshing cooler that is well-fortified with easy-to-take nourishment, combine two cups freshly-made, double strength coffee, four tablespoons chocolate syrup, four tablespoons sugar and two cups milk. Chill.

Pour into tall glasses and top with a generous spoonful of chocolate, coffee, vanilla or butterscotch ice cream, then stir well to serve. Makes four servings.

For an easy-to-fix but impressive dessert, make gingerbread as directed on gingerbread mix package. Bake in custard cups or large muffin pans.

While hot, split open. Fill with sliced fresh peaches and peach or vanilla ice cream.

Top with more ice cream and peach slices and serve hot. Want a new waffle or pancake topper? Blend together equal parts of apricot jam and honey and flavor with ground allspice to taste.

Household Hints

Season canned creamed corn with chili powder and serve with tamales and a green salad for a good supper main course.

Stir grated cucumber (seeds removed before grating) into a diet dressing and serve over sliced tomatoes to the weight-watcher in your family.

Add a dash of garlic powder, celery salt and nutmeg to the flour you use for coating chicken pieces. Fry the chicken by whichever method you prefer and serve with broiled pineapple slices.

Cook a package of frozen mixed vegetables and drain; mix with mayonnaise and lemon juice. Serve on salad greens as an accompaniment to cold meat.

Stir finely chopped toasted coconut into softened vanilla ice cream, then store in freezing compartment of refrigerator. Serve with chocolate sauce.

Paris Collections Created In New Miracle Fabrics

Sharing the spotlight on the current Paris collections, acclaimed as among the most beautiful in the long history of the great French country, are many impressive evening costumes done by top houses in a wide variety of miracle fabrics.

Among the collections, a new type of satin made of unbleached acrylic fiber, one of the latest man-made materials, is used for the pink dinner dress shown in the above picture. The bodice is fitted and has three-quarter sleeves. From two roses placed above the waistline of the frock at center back, floats a drifting chiffon panel, caught into the harem-like hem.

Flying panels, important in the Paris silhouette, fall into a graceful train of the next creation. The floor-length model is slim to the knees, then flares to back fullness. It is in tones of blue and blue-gray, with a strapless black bodice finished with a soft fold of blue at the top.

The third evening gown to be described is done in white and gold fabric reembodying in gold with a mauve taffeta stole. It features the long torso look, combined with a full, graceful skirt.

Williamsport Class Of 1936 Holds Reunion

The 1936 graduating class of Williamsport High School held its annual reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lozier of near Circleville.

The following class members were present: Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Carter of Mechanicsburg; George W. Smith, Eugene Anderson, Egbert Hanson of Columbus; Dan Noble and Kervyn Morrison, Williamsport; Mrs. Lozier, Miss Margie Carmean, Miss Mary Clark, Harold Gibson and Conway Stonerock of Circleville.

Guests included, Mrs. George W. Smith and children, Mrs. Eugene Anderson and children, Mrs. Dan Noble and children, Mrs. Kervyn Morrison and daughters, Mrs. Harold Gibson and son, Billy, Roger Lozier and son, Rodney, Judy, Tommy, Dick and June Carter.

Grange Members Conduct Meeting

Members of Saltcreek Valley Grange met in regular session for the latest meeting with Worthy Master Donald DeLong in the chair.

It was announced that the Grange will hold a picnic supper at 6:30 p. m. September 4, and the county-wide Grange Square Dance contest will be held September 27 in Walnut Township School after the Grange banquet.

Following the business the group counted sales tax stamps.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Stump, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shride and Mr. and Mrs. William Deffenbaugh.

Members of the September lunch committee are: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maxson and Raymond and Wanda, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maxson, Mr. and Mrs. George Rihl and Wayne and Cryder and Frances Bousher.

Emma Hill Feted On 7th Birthday

Emma Hill was entertained by her mother, Mrs. Henry Hill of Laurelville, who gave a party for Emma's seventh birthday.

During the afternoon the honored guest opened her gifts and the group enjoyed playing games.

Guests were: Robby, Cathy and Francine McNichols; Larry McKensie, Tommy Lutz, David Strous, Earnie Brown, Peggy Brown, Sissie Brown, Glen Knece, Mary Evelyn and Henry Hill Jr. and the honored guest.

Cancer Society To Hold Dinner

The annual meeting of the Pickaway County Cancer Society will open with a dinner to be served at 6:30 p. m. September 5 in Pickaway Arms.

The group will elect officers during the session.

Any city or county resident, who has contributed a dollar or more to the society, is eligible to attend the meeting.

New Spray Bottle Of Perfume Has Lasting Fragrance

If you have been bemoaning the fact that cologne lacks lasting qualities, look to a new fragrance product that may solve your complaints.

Similar to cologne, it is longer lasting. What is more, it is packed in an aerosol bottle that sprays a super-fine mist of scent. This, in part, accounts for its long-lasting quality.

According to its creator, the spray breaks the perfume oil into such minute particles they sink right into your skin, and so the fragrance stays and stays!

Speaking sprays, there is another new one that is designed for girdles and would seem to be a boon in warm weather. It is an aerosol that sprays talcum powder, perfumed with a light honeysuckle fragrance, on the girdle, making it easy to slide in and out of on even the stickiest days.

Another new item that has come along is strictly for the boys, little ones. It is a terry cloth catcher's mitt designed for use as a wash cloth and it comes with a soap baseball.

Republican Club To Attend Picnic

Pickaway County Women's Republican Club received an invitation from the Ross County Women's Republican Club to attend the group's annual picnic.

The event will be held at 6 p. m. Thursday at Meade Park, Hickory St., Chillicothe.

All local members are invited to attend and are asked to take their own table service and a covered dish.

Highlighting the session will be a talk by Reed Benson.

Cut the top from a green pepper and remove seeds and white membranes. Slice into wide rings. Fill rings with egg salad.

Sunshine Class Holds Meeting With Mrs. Cline

The Sunshine Class of Ashville Evangelical United Brethren Church met in the home of Mrs. Guy Cline with Mrs. Russell Costlow, assisting hostess.

Following the business session games were conducted and prizes were won by Maud Plummer, Linda Ann Brown, Easter Wallen and Frances Smith.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to 12 members. Eleanor Foreman and Mary Kreiger are the hostesses for the September meeting.

Score hamburger patties before broiling. When meat is browned and cooked fill scoring lines with chili sauce. Looks pretty!

Brown Breaks Hand But Lifts Lightweight Crown

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"I had to gamble, it was the only way to win," a tired but happy Joe Brown said today, nursing a broken right hand but holding a newly won lightweight championship as balm for his wounds.

The 30-year-old ex-carpenter from New Orleans, who fashioned quick reflexes and a stinging left jab as tools of his trade, finished with a whirlwind rally in the late rounds to gain a split decision and lift Wallace (Bud) Smith's title Friday night.

Brown, the target for Smith's pursuit during most of the nationally televised 15-rounder, smashed the 27-year-old Cincinnati titleholder to the floor twice in the 14th round. Smith rose from the

Drama Marks Handicap Fete At Vandalia

VANDALIA (AP)—The 57th grand American Trapshoot closes today with four championships being decided, but anything that happens will appear drab in comparison to Friday's windup of the sport's No. 1 event.

That was the Grand American Handicap, a 100 - target feature carrying a $15,000 purse which attracted 2,145 shooters, the greatest entry any clay target event has ever known.

The title went to C. W. Brown, 46, of Dayton, who broke 99 of 100 from 20 yards to get into a three-way tie, then defeated his opponents in a shootoff packed with drama.

Opposing Brown in the extra heat were Durwood L. Baumgartner of Houston, Tex., and Gallipolis, Ohio, and Paul Baker, 33, from Brookville, Ohio.

Brown, Baker and Baumgartner each registered the best score of his career in getting into the shoot off, Brown winning the 25-target extra event with 23, Baker taking second with 22 and Baumgartner third with 18.

Up for decision today are the doubles championship, the Vandalia Handicap and the high overall and all-around titles.

The three top men in the Grand American were expected to split up some $12,000 in prize money. Baumgartner said he would use his winnings to complete payments on a trailer.

Baumgartner, a traveling construction worker, was born in Kansas, lists Houston as his permanent home, registered for the shoot from Gallipolis, has been working several months at Crestline, and headed back to Houston today.

Plans Appeal Of Olympics Ban

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—William Smith, U. S. Olympic wrestling champion, says he will appeal a Central AAU decision barring him from further competition.

Smith was barred by the organization earlier this week on charges of having been paid to coach at a Rock Island, Ill., high school.

Marvin I. Thomas, chairman of the registration committee investigating charges against Smith, said "Smith did not produce any credible evidence to alter the fact" he received payment as a wrestling coach during four years with the Rock Island school system.

Bobo Eligible For Ohio State Team

COLUMBUS (AP)—Hubert Bobo, star fullback of Ohio State University's 1954 national champion football team, is eligible for the 1956 season.

University President Novice G. Fawcett announced Friday Bobo made up a scholastic deficiency in English by attending summer school at Wittenberg College, Springfield. He was out of school entirely during the 1955 season.

Coach Woody Hayes said he has not yet decided what position Bobo will play, but he is considering converting him into an end or tackle.

Pitcher Hero To Little Leaguers

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—A 12-year-old pitcher - second baseman and a "good man with the wood" is the toast of the Little League baseball world after clouting a 3-run homer Friday that gave his Roswell, N. M., club the 10th annual Little League World Series championship.

Tom Jordan, son of a former catcher for the Chicago White Sox and the old St. Louis Browns, hit his home run in the fourth inning to give the westerners a 3-1 win over Delaware Twp., N. J., runner-up for the second consecutive year.

After putting his club in the lead, the little right-hander took the hill with amazing poise and proceeded to strike out the next six batters in a row to end the contest with a total of 13 strikeouts.

Bachelor Governor Comes Visiting

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Oberlin College's president, his wife and their pretty 28-year-old daughter are hosts here this weekend to Gov.

Haines To Head Guard Artillery

COLUMBUS (AP)—Gov. Frank J. Lausche has advanced Col. Howard F. Haines of Columbus to brigadier general and commander of the division artillery in Ohio's 37th Infantry division.

Col. Haines will succeed Maj. Gen. Kenneth Cooper who recently took over command of the 37th.

Maj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber recently resigned as commander of the 37th.

Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey, Oberlin President William E. Stevenson described Meyner's trip as just a visit to see the family.

Helen Stevenson flew to Cleveland from New York Friday night far behind a flight made by Meyner.

Meyner, 48, sometimes described as one of the most eligible bachelors in the nation, made the keynote speech at Oberlin's mock Democratic convention last May.

Miss Stevenson, a cousin of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson, reportedly works for the Stevenson - for - President Committee in New York.

State's Soil Supervisors Reminded Big Task Is Still Ahead

Conservation Leaders Attend Annual School

Panel Recommends Continuation Of Rural Life Sunday

Four local representatives were present this week when supervisors of the state's soil conservation districts, attending their annual school at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, were reminded that "selling" the idea of soil conservation is still an uphill job.

The warning came from Bob Grieser, Clark Soil Conservation District Supervisor and president of the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts. He was the main speaker at a gathering of approximately 200 district supervisors, their wives, friends and co-workers.

Present from Pickaway County were Dr. Wells Wilson of Circleville Route 1; Paul Peck of New Holland Route 1; Frank Groves of Kingston Route 1, and Ralph May of 157 W. Mound St. Also widely known in this district in all projects designed to spread the idea of saving the nation's farm soil is Don Archer.

Grieser told his audience: "We've come a long way in 11 years, but we still have a greater distance to travel if we want to get our job done."

OTHER GROUPS and speakers were also on the program.

"Rural Life Sunday," a cooperative venture between churches and soil conservation districts, was most successful in 1956 and should be continued in 1957, according to a panel of district supervisors and ministers appearing before the group.

District supervisors, and farmers in general, must take an ever increasing interest in proposed water legislation dealing with water rights and related water problems, according to Clair Guess of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, and Virgil Overholt, Extension Engineer emeritus, Ohio State University.

"The Soil Bank Program may have far-reaching effects on the efforts of Soil Conservation Districts. District Supervisors' advice and counsel will be required if the program is to most effectively operate," declared J. E. Bradfute of the Commodity Stabilization Service.

"Soil Conservation District Supervisors have a big challenge to meet all the opportunities and responsibilities of their jobs," Floyd Heft, Executive Secretary of the Ohio Soil Conservation Committee, stated.

Depression Over Debts Told By Wife Of Kidnap Suspect

PLAINVIEW, N. Y. (P)—Quietly but tensely, Mrs. Angelo A. La-Marca told in halting phrases the grim account of her husband's arrest in the Weinberger baby kidnapping.

As to his guilt or innocence she said simply: "I don't know."

She said she had no inkling of what was in store when she and her husband arrived at their new home in this Long Island community at 2 a. m. Thursday.

They had taken their two children to the home of her husband's parents at Elmont, Long Island.

As they entered the driveway to their home, she said, two cars carrying four FBI men pulled alongside.

The FBI men got out. Speaking of her husband, Mrs. La-Marca said:

"He wanted to know what they wanted. They told him they wanted to search the house."

"They came in and searched the house. Then two of the men took Angelo away and two men stayed with me."

Before her husband was taken she said, "I asked him what was wrong — what happened — and he told me not to worry about anything."

Mrs. LaMarca, a 31-year-old brunette, spoke to newsmen at her home.

Mrs. LaMarca said that their 10½ years of marriage had been "pretty happy"—but that in the past few months they had encountered financial difficulties.

She said they had not been able to pay August payments on their $15,000 home into which they moved last May. She also said that other bills had not been met but declined to give their amounts.

However, she said things had taken a turn for the better recently when her husband obtained work with a moving firm. He previously had been a taxicab driver working at night.

She said she had noticed no particular change in her husband during the past two months except that "he was depressed about our bills."

Asked if she could recall the activities of her husband on July 4—the day of the kidnapping—she gave this account:

"He was home during the day. He went out in the evening. I thought about 6:30 or 7 o'clock and was supposed to be driving a cab during the evening, getting home at 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning. And as far as I can remember that was when he came home the next day."

Mrs. LaMarca described her husband as "a very good father" to their children, Vincent, 9, and Vivian, 6.

Timken Signs For Modified Union Shop, Pay Raise

CANTON, Ohio (P)—Timken Roller Bearing Co. and the United Steelworkers Friday signed a three-year contract providing a modified union shop plan and wage and fringe benefits worth 21 cents an hour to 10,000 production employees.

John S. Johns, district director of the Steelworkers, acclaimed the overall settlement as "perhaps the most outstanding ever negotiated with Timken."

Timken management long had opposed any form of union shop, and was an advocate of the "right-to-work" philosophy.

The pact is subject to approval of Timken employees in Canton, Columbus, Zanesville, Wooster and Mount Vernon who will vote on it over the weekend.

The union shop compromise requires all new employees to join the steelworkers in 30 days or lose their jobs. But after they have been employed six months, they are allowed a 15-day period in which they may quit the union without penalty if they wish.

Wages were raised 11 cents hourly. Johns did not have the average wage scale at hand, but said male workers get slightly more than those in Big Steel; women slightly less. The minimum hiring rate for men is $1.88 under the new pact; the starting rate for women $1.71.

Shirley Booth Has Regrets About Quickie Academy Award

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Shirley Booth leaned back in her chair beside her swimming pool and said, "I wish I hadn't won the Academy award so soon."

Not that the Oscar—for her 1952 portrayal of a frumpy hausfrau in "Come Back Little Sheba"—has done her any harm, Shirley added.

"But, I felt it came much too quickly. It was my first motion picture, you know. I always think you should work up to something," she said.

Her success on the stage with "Sheba" and subsequent plays came after many years of hard work, frustration and tears. Miss Booth, by the way, made her Broadway debut in 1925 along with a young fellow named Humphrey Bogart.

The red-haired actress is a temporary Hollywoodian while appearing in the play, "The Desk Set."

"It's a funny thing," she went on, "when success arrives in your later years, no one is envious at all. Older people hope the same lightning might strike them; the

American Saga: Immigrant Boy Entertains The Vice President

By JOHN CHADWICK

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—One of the untold stories of the Republican convention, an Ohio delegate disclosed, is about the immigrant baker boy from Fremont, Ohio, who entertained Vice President Nixon at dinner.

The story is about Tony Szymanowski, who came to this country from his native Poland almost 50 years ago at the age of 18 with just $7 in his pocket.

Now a prosperous baker in Fremont, in northwestern Ohio, Szymanowski gave a dinner here Tuesday night for the Ohio delegates to the convention, and Nixon was present as the honored guest.

When Nixon heard Szymanowski's story he said, "this is the story of the American way of life."

Nixon was seated at Szymanowski's right. Also at the head table was Mrs. Nixon, seated beside Szymanowski's wife.

Four Reluctant On State Purchase Of Cedar Point

CLEVELAND (P)—Four of the 10 members of the Ohio Legislature Committee to Study Acquisition of Cedar Point believe the state should spruce up the parks it owns now before it buys any more.

"I think we should spend on what we already own before buying new areas to develop," Rep. F. K. Cassell of Carey, committee chairman, commented Friday. Agreeing with him were Rep. Frank Gorman of Cleveland, Sen. Joseph W. Bartunek of Cleveland and Rep. David Lewis of New Lexington.

The committee met last Wednesday and discussed Cedar Point with Sandusky officials. They postponed any official recommendations until an Erie County court case is settled.

The court must decide whether to approve a plan for a real estate syndicate to buy the resort from a trust which owns 51 per cent of the common stock in the G. A. Boeckling Co., owner of the land.

After the real estate group announced they hoped to develop the land into a residential area, Gov. Frank Lausche advocated that Ohio purchase the point for a state park.

Polio Fades Out

CINCINNATI (P)—Health officials reported a rarity here Friday: No polio cases at General Hospital for the first time in many summers.

Plan Relocation Along Highway 40

COLUMBUS (P)—Nearly 22 miles of U. S. 40 between Kirtlandville and Brownsville in southern Licking County will be relocated by late 1958 at an estimated cost of 22 million dollars.

This has been announced by L. F. Schaeublin, first assistant director of the state highway department. The new section will be four-lane with limited access.

Principal objections to the project will be overcome by the state agreeing to keep the present section of U. S. 40 in the state highway system, Schaeublin said.

Workers Back

TIFFIN (P)—The 150 employees who walked out Thursday at the General Electric Co. motors plant returned to their jobs Friday. The workers, who said they were demonstrating against piece-work rate cuts, plan to pursue the issue through the United Electrical Workers.
